Washington—The federal government has every desire to cooperate with the oil industry and believes there are lawful methods of solving the surplus problem.

The recent conference between representatives of the American Petroleum Institute and the Federal

Oil Conservation board are merely the beginning of a program which authorities here are anxious shall be one of cooperation and not interfere-ence.

There is still a mystery as to why a proposed agreement which came into conflict with the Sherman antitrust law should have been put up to the federal government, though it was learned Thursday that at the same time some of the members of the Petroleum Institute came here several individual companies sent word to Washington that they did not concur in the step.

The upshot of the matter at present is that the oil men did not see the distinction between curtailment of new production and agreeing among themselves to restrict the output of wells already in production.

From unquestioned sources it was revealed that there is no legal bar

so far as the federal government is concerned, against an agreement on the part of oil well owners not to put their properties into production

any more than there is any law which could be invoked against the owners of several building sites if they decided they did not wish to construct buildings on them.

ONE CHIEF OBJECTION

As outlined now, the only objection of the federal government is to restrictions of output which is already a part of interstate commerce. Officials said that nowhere

Judge Fowler Goes On Supreme Bench

New Justice

Chester A. Fowler, Fond du Lac circuit judge, who has been appointed by Gov. Walter J. Kohler to succeed the late Chief Justice A. J. Vinje as a member of the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

APPOINTED AS SUCCESSOR TO
JUSTICE VINJEFond du Lac Man First Fox River Valley Justice in Several Years

Madison—(AP)—Chester A. Fowler of Fond du Lac, was appointed to the state supreme court Friday to succeed the late Chief Justice A. J. Vinje.

Col. W. L. Smith, private secretary to Gov. Walter J. Kohler, announced the appointment at 9:15 Friday morning, in the absence of the governor, who is on his way to Washington.

Judge Fowler, who was born at Rubicon, Dodge co., has presided in the Eighteenth Judicial circuit for 24 years. He spent most of his youth in Richland co., then came to the University of Wisconsin, and graduated in law. He was admitted to the bar and moved to Omaha, Neb., where he practiced for five years.

PRACTICED AT PORTAGE

Returning to Wisconsin, Judge Fowler opened a law office at Portage and was in active practice there 10 years. Since he has become a judge several important cases have been before his court, notably the case of the City of Portage against the City Water company. He was chairman of the board of Circuit Judges for the first 10 years of its existence. Judge Fowler is a Democrat and in private life has shown varied interests. He is fond of outdoor sports and participates in curling.

His family consists of his wife and twin son and daughter of adult age. The governor's statement called attention to the fact that Judge Fowler is the first member of the court from the Fox river valley in several years. The Associated Press, a few days after the recent death of Chief Justice Vinje, reported that Judge Fowler's name had been set forward, because of this geographic alignment.

Supreme court officials expect that Judge Fowler will assume the bench about April 29 when the new assignment of cases for May come to the attention of the court.

As the justices are seated to the right and left, respectively of the chief justice, according to seniority, Justice Fowler will occupy an extreme end chair of the long bench as the spectator faces it.

HUNT FOR CAUSE OF
BLAST IN BUILDING

Detroit—(AP)—While members of 16 fighting units searched through tons of debris, police Friday sought to determine the cause of an explosion which late Thursday demolished a four-story building on E. Jefferson-ave, between Randolph and Bates-sts., damaged two adjacent structures and caused the death of at least one man. Three persons were injured and one is missing.

Coffer Dam
Breaks; Six
Are MissingTwo of Eight Working 30
Feet Under River Saved
After Collapse

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Believed to have been caught in the collapse of a coffer dam at the S. Logan-st. viaduct here Friday morning, four men are missing and two others are thought to have been found. The missing men, all members of a crew of eight working below the dam about 30 feet under the water level, are: H. Kramer, Isaac Helman, Frank Harris and Fred Heck, all of Lansing.

The river, swollen by recent rains, placed tremendous strain on the dam and caused the collapse without warning.

Eight men were working about 30 feet under the level of the river on the footings of the viaduct on the south side of the river when without warning there was a crash and the workers were buried under an avalanche of crashing timbers and water.

An emergency call was broadcast by police who rushed to the scene. Shortly after they arrived ambulances were on the scene.

Two of the eight men were rescued but the other six were believed at most certainly to have perished.

Pressure of water on the dam caused the cave in. The tremendous weight of the swollen river crushed in the sides of the dam with such force that one man was thrown entirely clear of the wreckage into the river. He was one of the two rescued. The injured were taken to St. Lawrence hospital.

$10,000 FIRE LOSS
WHEN GARAGE BURNS

Cochran, Wis.—(AP)—Awakened by flames shooting past their bedroom window, two small daughters of Alfred Rohrer, quarantined for scarlet fever, discovered a fire in their father's garage next to the house. Damage to the garage was estimated at $10,000.

Testifies Aimee Was With Ormiston On Carmel Visit

Sacramento, Calif.—(AP)—Declaring that Aimee Semple McPherson was the companion of her radio operator, Kenneth Ormiston, on a visit to Carmel, Calif., three years ago at the time the evangelist said she was in the hands of kidnappers in Mexico, Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielfaff, once known as the mysterious "Madame X" in the abduction inquiry, Friday appeared to testify in the impeachment trial of Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Wiseman-Sielfaff declared she intended to "tell everything" before the bar of the senate which will pass on the Hardy impeachment charges. There was no doubt in her mind, she said, that Mrs. McPherson was in Carmel with Ormiston, during her disappearance. She said that both the evangelist and her mother, Mrs. Minnie E. Kennedy, had told her so and that nothing could convince her to the contrary.

Mrs. Wiseman-Sielfaff, who figured as a prosecution witness in the conspiracy hearing of Mrs. McPherson two years ago, recently made an affidavit saying Judge Hardy had negotiated with her to produce a "Miss X" in the McPherson case. She would admit being in the company of Ormiston, radio operator, at Carmel, Calif. The state charged that Mrs. McPherson was Ormiston's companion and that her kidnapping story was false.

Judge Hardy is accused of acting illegally as attorney for Mrs. McPherson and of obstructing justice by defending her kidnapping story. Testimony already has been presented indicating that Mrs. Wiseman-Sielfaff conferred with Mrs. McPherson about the "Miss X" arrangement while the evangelist's story was under fire and that she (Mrs. Wiseman-Sielfaff) was directed to confer with Judge Hardy.

Marion Talley To Retire;
She Wants To Be Farmer

New York—(AP)—Marion Talley, youthful Metropolitan Opera star, whose phenomenal career brought her a fortune in three years, has decided to retire to a farm. Estimates are that her golden voice has made $500,000.

Since she is only 21 years old and presumably in years to come would earn hundreds of thousands more, she has amazed her concert manager and friends with the statement:

"I have made up my mind to retire from the professional stage. By this I mean all operatic appearances as well. My retirement will be permanent."

"I am going west with my family. The farm might be in California and it might be in Colorado, but I am going to look first in the middle west. I am going to be just like all other farmers."

Her last appearance will be at Cleveland, where she will sing in "Lucia" May 4. Her engagement with the Metropolitan expires with that appearance.

Scarface Al Under Fire
In Wisconsin Assembly

Madison—(AP)—"Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago gang chieftain, has become an issue before a legislative committee.

An assembly committee Friday was meditating charges made by Assemblyman Evan G. Davies of Wales, that Capone is the beneficiary of the contribution and refund system used at the Mound Kennel club at Brookfield in Waukesha co.

Mr. Davies is author of a bill to prohibit dog racing and the committee voted 4 to 2 to present the bill for passage.

The assemblyman described the dog track promoters as "migratory cut throats" and "wolves in sheep's clothing who devour the young of Wisconsin and bleed the wage earners of their earnings," and termed the contribution and refund system a polite form of gambling.

He said the club's receipts last year were more than $45,000 but that only $151,000 was reported for taxation due to provisions of the present law.

On the other hand, Thomas E. Leahy of Milwaukee, who said he represented only himself and appeared as a citizen, told the committee that the paramount issue of the last election was dog racing and the people that favored it won.

He said the bill was aimed at the one track and had no state-wide application. Mr. Davies replied with assertion that some of the promoters of dog racing live in St. Louis and Alton, Ill., and use the sport merely as a camouflage for gambling.

MEXICAN FEDERALS NAB
100 REBEL PRISONERS

Naco, Sonora—(AP)—Federal cavalry Friday carried battle into General J. Gonzalo Escobar's rebel camp. Ninety cavaliers from the federal garrison here charged into the contingent of rebel troops on the Nogales road, west of San Jose early Wednesday morning, Friday and captured, demobilized the revolutionaries and took approximately 100 prisoners.

U. S. TROOPS ON GUARD
Naco, Ariz.

Naco, Ariz.—(AP)—American artillery was on its way to Naco Friday to defend the American border against the menace of Mexican rebel fire pieces trained upon the loyal garrison of Naco, Sonora.

A battery of field artillery was en route from Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, and two 2-inch field pieces were on the way from Camp Jones, Douglas, Ariz.

Reports that American soil might again be subjected to Mexican rebel fire were heard Friday morning as advances came from the rebel stronghold at Nogales, Sonora, that revolutionary forces possibly would attack Naco, Sonora, Friday.

PROBE DEATH OF MAN
FOUND IN ELK CREEK

Independence—(AP)—A coroner's inquest will be held here Saturday to determine the cause of the death of Theodore Mueller, 21, whose body was found in the Elk creek pond here Thursday.

Mueller had been missing Tuesday night, when he is said to have quarreled with his sweetheart. Suspicion was aroused Wednesday morning when, although the night had been cold, his hat and coat was found in his car.

A search of the neighborhood failed to locate him and finally the pond was searched.

3 Funerals
For Victims
Of Tornado

Little Rock, Ark.—(AP)—Three group funerals of victims of the tornado which Wednesday swept sections of north Arkansas taking a toll of life which stood at 50 Friday, were to be held Friday afternoon at Guion and Swifton, two villages which bore the brunt of the storm.

Two small rural cemeteries near Swifton each are to receive the bodies of 11 victims, while at Guion, 6 of those who lost their lives in the storm which razed the entire town, are to be buried.

Meanwhile, the work of rehabilitation was going forward under direction of Red Cross workers and national guardsmen.

The first eye witness accounts of the storm which demolished Guion were furnished early Friday by residents there. Not one building was left of more than a hundred and fifty.

Throughout Thursday those who were not injured searched among the ruins of their homes. Little will be salvaged from the wreckage, observers said, so complete was the damage wrought. What was not destroyed or damaged by the wind was water soaked from a torrential rain.

One of the victims related from his cot in a temporary hospital at Batesville, the approach of the tornado.

He said it appeared from the west down the White river. As it approached, it sucked up the water into a whirling spout and the lower portion of the village was drenched.

"One viewing the wreckage after the storm passed could not understand how even a cat could have escaped," one victim related. "The death list would have been much larger had citizens not taken refuge in storm cellars. Many hurried to tunnels in sandstone quarries and escaped."

LIGHTED AIR
FOR VALLEYBeacon Light System from Milwaukee to Green Bay
Before End of Summer

A lighted aerial route from Milwaukee through Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha and Appleton to Green Bay will be completed early next summer, the United States department of commerce has assured Congressmen George J. Schneider of the Ninth district and Florian Lampert of the Sixth district, according to a telegram received Friday morning from Mr. Schneider.

The department will proceed immediately with a survey for lighting the airway, the telegram stated. Mr. Schneider also said the post-office department will arrange immediately for direct air mail service from Menasha and Neenah to the George A. Whiting airport. Since the establishment of air mail through the Fox river valley, airmail from Menasha and Neenah was sent to the Appleton postoffice by special messenger and then sent to the airport and airmail arriving for the Twin Cities also was delivered first to the Appleton postoffice and then carried by messenger to Menasha and Neenah offices. Hereafter those cities will have direct pouch service to and from the airport.

Mr. Schneider's telegram suggests a shelter should be provided at the airport for mail messengers, but that already has been taken care of.

WIRED FROM HERE

Congressman Schneider interviewed the department of commerce in response to a wire sent to him Tuesday afternoon by the air mail committee of Appleton Chamber of Commerce asking him to use his influence to secure a lighted airway through the Fox river valley.

It was explained that other localities had put in prior requests for a beacon system but it was believed that if an effort was made Wisconsin might be favored. Congressman Schneider and Lampert arranged a conference with the department with the result they were assured that construction of the beacon light system will be completed before summer and the survey will start at once.

Beacon beacons will be stationed every few miles along the route to guide the aviators of all types engaged in night flying. These beacons not only will be of great help to small plane pilots but to airmen flying commercial planes and it is believed that the Fox river valley will be one of the busiest air routes in the country after the lighting system is put into operation.

Penalties Under New Federal Act

Marquette, Mich.—(AP)—For the first time in this district the stringent penalties provided by the Jones law were invoked Friday when Judge Fred M. Raymond passed sentences on 14 liquor law violators in U. S. district court here. All but two of the defendants were sentenced under the Jones law.

Maurin Philbin and Louis Gardonia, both of Indianapolis, were sentenced to serve three years in Leavenworth prison and the latter was also fined $1,000. After sentence was passed on Gardonia, he tried to commit suicide by slashing his throat with a knife but was defeated in the attempt.

APPLETON IS ELECTED

Texas' Rival
Also Called For Hearing

New York—(AP)—Helen Morgan, singer of plaintive melodies and the only woman ever to threaten the laurels of Texas Gulluna as the most popular night club hostess on Broadway, will on Monday stand trial on the same charge of which Texas was acquitted.

Miss Morgan, musical comedy actress, is charged with maintaining a nuisance through sale of liquor at the Helen Morgan club at which she was hostess. She quit the night club business after her arrest last fall.

Texas was acquitted Thursday in 45 minutes by a jury of middle-aged men who took but two ballots. The verdict was greeted with cries of "whoopie" by the spectators and Texas lavishly distributed kisses among the spectators and jurymen.

To Norman J. Morrison, special deputy United States attorney general who prosecuted her, she said: "I want to thank you. You were a perfect gentleman."

Miss Gulluna, said the prosecutor, "you were the toughest customer I ever had."

She then issued an invitation to all present, to pass the evening at her new night club.

The "coming out" party, as Texas termed it, was attended by a crowd that taxed the capacity of the club.

HARBOR MASTER TO FACE TRIAL BOARDOfficial Breaks Down When Accused of Bringing Booze
from Canada

Detroit, Mich.—(AP)—Suspended Thursday after charges against him that he had utilized his position as harbor master and head of the police detail on Belle Isle to aid rum runners in moving liquor from Canada, Capt. Joseph A. Burkheiser must face the police trial board as soon as his health will permit.

Following his suspension Burkheiser was reported to have suffered a "complete nervous collapse." He was taken to a hospital.

Police Commissioner William P. Rutledge characterized the incident "the worst scandal in the history of the Detroit police department" and added that the charges against Burkheiser "were not a tenth of it."

Burkheiser is charged with having stored a part of a confidential cargo of liquor in his living station in the Belle Isle station and transporting it to Detroit in department automobiles.

Board Orders Highway Z Paving As It Ends Session

BUT BUILDER WILL HAVE TO WAIT FOR PAY

No Money Available Now to Complete Improvement of Kaukauna Road

A contractor can be found to complete the paving of County Trunk Z from Kaukauna to Appleton on the south side of the Fox river and wait for his pay until April 1, 1930, the highway committee has the authority to go ahead with the improvement according to provisions of a resolution adopted by the county board Friday morning.

The board closed its spring session Friday after being in session since Monday.

Estimated cost of the additional paving to be done on County Trunk Z is $20,000. The reason for making the contractor wait for his money is that there will be no funds available for the work as members of the finance committee estimated that the full amount of money which could be borrowed by the county would be needed for regular expenses.

STARTED LAST YEAR

The work on County Trunk Z was started last year when the county board provided $8,000 to pave a much of the road as possible with asphalt. The section of the highway between Kimberly and Appleton was completed and about $15,000 of the original amount remains and this will be expended in paving from Kimberly toward Kaukauna as far as the money will go. A small section of the road in the city limits in Kaukauna has also been paved.

Supervisors William Beck, chairman, T. H. Ryan, August Laubs, Anton Jansen were appointed to act on the committee which will attempt to settle the bank tax controversy between the city of Appleton and the county. Chairman Mike Mack also is a member of this committee.

The city of Appleton has retained $22,000 of the county tax money raised by the city, claiming that amount is due to the county as a share of the refund which the city made to local banks when the bank stock taxes collected in previous years was declared illegal. A part of the money collected by the city had been paid to the county and it is seeking a refund.

A claim for $4,000, in a similar case, has been filed against the county by the city of Seymour.

Supervisor T. H. Ryan expressed the hope that the committee would be able to settle the affair without going into the courts.

HIRE LAWYERS

The board also voted to ask the circuit court to appoint the firm of Bradford and Bradford as special county attorneys to act in this matter. The court also will be asked to fix the legal fees.

Charges by Supervisor Anton Jansen of Little Chute that a blunder had been committed by two county officials in accepting only a part of the city tax levy due the county were answered by Stanley A. Stalid, district attorney. Mr. Jansen's charges referred to Mr. Stalid and Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer.

Mr. Stalid pointed out that Miss Ziegenhagen had accepted a part of the city tax levy and tendered a receipt for that share only on his advice. He quoted the statutes on which he based his opinion and pointed out that he felt if the county had refused to accept what had been offered by the city that the action taken by him, in filing a demand with the city treasurer and his bondsmen for that share of the tax which had not been paid, now entitled the county to receive 10 per cent interest instead of 5 per cent.

The action taken by Mr. Stalid was perfectly proper and quite the thing to do under the circumstances, Supervisor T. H. Ryan told the board. He said Mr. Stalid's action probably would save the county some money.

Chairman Mike Mack appointed Supervisors John Grafmeier, L. F. Bushey and John Niesen to make an inventory and appraisal of machinery and equipment at the county garage.

The date for the special board meeting was changed from Aug. 19 to 26 when the board was informed that the Seymour fair was to start on the former date.

Sixteen supervisors voted against a resolution authorizing the highway committee to have as many culverts removed as possible with the fund of $5,000 provided for the purpose but the measure was adopted as 25 votes being cast in favor of it.

More

In November the county board appropriated $5,000 for the work. The highway committee called for bids and the lowest estimate exceeded the amount available. In February the committee reported the results of the bids and the board instructed the committee to remove three culverts and keep a careful record of the cost. This week the committee reported showing that it had cost the county about twice as much to remove the end walls, install extensions and widen the road as the contractor's price.

Supervisors who voted against the end wall removal were Bushey, Deibel, Puert, Grafmeier, Jarvis, Kennedy, Lathrop, Reichel, Ruppel, Ryan, Savall, Schroeder, Sievert, Smith, Tracy and Wicksberg.

The resolution asking for construction of a garage for the sheriff's department was laid over to the August session of the board so that the building and grounds committee could make further investigation.

A request from Dan Kelly, turn-out on the county jail, for a salary was laid over to the November session.

He's Indicted

Charged with having aided an alleged plot of counterfeiters, former Governor Sidney J. Catts of Florida, above, has been indicted by a federal grand jury. The wartime Democratic governor, who also is a minister, was alleged to have had an understanding with a Tampa lawyer whereby he would receive $25,000 counterfeit in return for a $5000 investment.

COUNCIL MAY GET PROPOSAL SOON TO MOVE MONUMENT

Several Aldermen Favor Establishing Parking Space on Square

A resolution proposing removal of the monument facing S. Oneida st. on Soldiers sq. to the boulevard on S. Cherry st. probably will be presented to the common council at an early meeting. The move, which has the backing of local military organizations has been under way for several weeks, but no formal proposal has come to the council.

Opposition to the proposal on the part of at least two or three aldermen is rumored.

In view of the fact that the council recently voted to change the name of S. Cherry st. to Memorial dr. out of respect to military organizations, other memorials to soldiers should be divided throughout the city, in the opinion of one alderman.

Another alderman pointed out that, with the constant increase in the volume of traffic over Memorial dr., it might be necessary within a few years to eliminate the boulevard south of Memorial bridge and make the entrance to the city one large, wide drive. If this action should be carried out, the monument would have to be moved again, he said.

The majority of the council, however, appears to view the proposal with favor, and if the military units behind the move can overcome other obstacles outside the council, it is possible that the project will be realized.

If the monument is moved the boulevard on Soldiers sq. might be torn up and converted into a parking space. The council has discussed this action informally several times recently, but nothing definite will be done until the disposal of the monument has been decided upon.

WEATHER FOR NEXT 24 HOURS IS UNCERTAIN

The weatherman includes a little weather of every kind for the next 24 hours. He says snow or rain will fall here Friday night and the mercury will continue to explore the regions further down the thermometer.

Fair weather is on the menu for this vicinity Saturday and probably for the weekend, he says.

mercury is due for a gradual rise until Sunday.

Winds are shifting in the south-west and west, which is a fair indication that ideal weather will prevail here soon. At 6 o'clock Friday morning the mercury registered 31 degrees above zero and at noon the temperature was 41 degrees above.

ARTICLES FILED FOR PAPER CORPORATION

Articles of incorporation for the Paper Package corporation, which is to operate in Appleton, were filed Friday with A. G. Koch, register of deeds. The firm is to deal in paper, paper boards, paper boxes, labels, specialties and novelties. The capital stock amounts to $25,000 which is divided into 250 shares each worth $100. E. J. McMurchie, Neenah, and Harry J. and Carl J. Kahler, Appleton, are members of the firm.

C. C. CONSIDERS FIRE PREVENTION PROGRAM

Need for a fire prevention campaign in Appleton is being considered by the chamber of commerce following a visit here Friday of Clarence R. James, secretary of the Wisconsin State Fire Prevention association. Plans for the campaign still are under consideration. The work may be carried out this spring or may be put off until the fall.

MRS. CLAPP NAMED NEW SECRETARY OF LOCAL WOMANS CLUB

Successor of Mrs. Mable Shannon Assumes Her Duties on May 1

Mrs. R. N. Clapp, 1418 N. Union st., was elected general secretary of the Appleton Woman's club at the general meeting Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Clapp succeeds Mrs. Mable Shannon, who has held the position for the past three years.

Mrs. William Grove was elected president, succeeding Mrs. S. C. Rosebush. The new first vice-president, succeeding Mrs. S. C. Rosebush, is Mrs. F. G. Wheeler, and the second vice-president Mrs. Richard Gotschew. Other officers are Mrs. R. N. Clapp, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Koffend, corresponding secretary; Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, treasurer. The new board of directors is composed of Mrs. D. J. O'Connor, Mrs. John Jennings, Mrs. A. G. Tankham, Mrs. George Wood, and Mrs. Arthur Zuehlke.

In line with the retrenchment program of the club, the new general secretary will handle the work formerly done by both Mrs. Shannon and Mrs. John Engel, Jr., office secretary, and a new recreational director will do the work done for the past three years by Agnes Vanneman Shipman, physical education director, and Miss Elmer Strickland, dramatic director. Naturally, with two salaried workers instead of four, the program of club work will not be as extensive as it has been in the past, but it was decided that until the financial situation of the club is healthier a policy of retrenchment would be necessary.

ASSUMED DUTIES MAY 1

Mrs. Clapp, who will assume her new duties on May 1, is a newcomer to Appleton, but since her arrival in this city a year and a half ago she has been very active in club and church work. While living at Ellsworth, her home before she came to Appleton, she was president of the tenth district of Woman's clubs, and prior to this was vice-president and district chairman of the Outdoor Art committee. For the past year she has been recording secretary of the Appleton club.

Miss Birdine Klein, who is at present taking her Master's degree in recreation work at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., has been engaged as the new recreational director. Miss Klein, who lives at Ellsworth, Ind., is a graduate of the University of Tennessee, and this summer will conduct a Young Woman's Christian association camp near Chicago. Miss Strickland will finish her work at the club here on June 1, and Mrs. Shipman will leave on Aug. 1.

The new schedule of employees is the work of a committee, headed by Mrs. George Wetengel, appointed at the general meeting to investigate the problem. The committee chosen to decide on a new system of dues has not yet made a report.

LEVEL OF RIVER STILL GOING UP

Water Rises Another Inch Thursday Night, Allanson Reports

The level of the Fox river rose another inch Thursday night, bringing it to 29 1/2 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam, according to George Allanson, Menasha, lock tender and Allan Tripp, president of the Association for Relief of High Water at Oshkosh. The snow which is now melting, had much to do with the increase.

Manufacturing plants at Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and Kaukauna still are experiencing considerable trouble with backwater. It is reported that some damage was done to stock in the Menasha Woodmen's camp Thursday when back water flooded the basement. Many plants are using steam power, because it is impossible to utilize hydro-electric units.

Father Killed by Drys

The family of Monroe Foster, who was killed near Pineville, Fla., as he fled from federal prohibition authorities and Deputy Sheriff Barney J. Wiggins of Baldwin county, Alabama, is pictured above. Earl Hubbard, a witness, having told officers he saw Wiggins fire the shot that killed Foster as Foster was running away. Hubbard declares neither he nor Foster was connected with moonshining as the raiders believed. Wiggins gained prominence about two years ago when he arrested Governor Brandon of Alabama and others in a raid on a fishing camp near Bay Minette.

MALCHOW MEASURE KILLED, 61 TO 22

Assembly Votes Down Bill Exempting Farm Items from Taxation

Madison — (AP) — After a strenuous debate, the assembly killed the Malchow bill exempting certain farm property from taxation by a vote of 61 to 22.

Yeagons, sleighs, carriages, harnesses, robes and radios would have been exempt from the personal property tax under the original bill, to which Assemblyman Wallace Ingalls, Racine, attempted in vain to add an amendment exempting such items as lumber and hay.

Assemblyman Edwards of Sussex, said John J. Coligan, who requested the bill, attended a Green Bay tax assessors' meeting and was a member of that organization's committee, that "deplored continued and increasing tax exemptions."

Edwards charged inconsistency. Assemblyman John Fronck of Antigo, countered with the question "what did we do last session but exempt about $67,000,000 of bank stock taxes?" Why not give the farmers this exemption, which is generally allowed anyway, by the assessors. At least this can do no harm.

Mr. Edwards: "Yes we exempted bank stocks and why was that done?"

Mr. Fronck: "It was done because the powerful bank lobby was right here on the job."

The vote was only attained after the previous question had been moved to cut off debate, and after the indefinite postponement of the bill immediate reconsideration was taken and the same action repeated to prevent its coming up again.

BOARD WRANGLES OVER DAMAGE BY MARAUDING DOGS

Finally Decides to Pay Damages Caused by Depredations Before Jan. 1

The county board fled itself up in a knot of argument and controversy Friday morning when it was asked to approve a report from the general accounts committee which would have allowed 28 dog damage claims totaling more than $300.

A minority report from Supervisor F. O. Smith, Hortonville, a member of the committee, advised that all dog claims be laid over until the November session.

Mr. Smith explained that a deficit had occurred in the dog license fund last year when the claims for damages exceeded the amount collected. He said there was a possibility that the same thing would occur this year and that it was his opinion that those suffering damage from dogs later in the year should not be penalized because the fund was exhausted by early payments.

Several supervisors sided with Mr. Smith but Supervisor Schroeder of the town of Ellington pointed out that it should not be necessary for those suffering damages from dogs in November of one year to wait a full year for their money. He cited the case of one resident of his town who lost three pigs only a few days before they were to be taken to market to raise funds to pay taxes. This man had to borrow money to pay his taxes and he should not be forced to wait a full year for his money, Mr. Schroeder said.

The board compromised by amending Mr. Smith's minority report to allow all claims for damages which occurred before Jan. 1, 1929. The balance will lay over until the November session. The board also passed a resolution decreeing that no dog damage claims will be allowed in the future except at the November session.

Supervisor Smith took the opportunity to protest against the long distance telephone bills which the committee has been asked to approve. He said that quite evidently some of these calls could be eliminated and thereby reduce operating expenses. He urged the adoption of some system whereby a checkup could be made on all long distance calls.

The board also became involved in a discussion over a claim from Peter A. Melcher, county humane officer, for $154 in fees. Several members pointed out that there was no record to show Mr. Melcher was a duly appointed official and therefore the bill should be disallowed. Other supervisors rose to the defense of the humane agent and said that the county needed such an officer. The matter rested when the board voted to lay the bill over to the next session for investigation.

WANT ALL-WEATHER LANDING FIELD HERE

C. of C. Committee Considers Need for Improved Air Mail Service

Possible establishment of all-weather landing fields in Fox river valley airports was discussed by the air mail committee of Appleton chamber of commerce Thursday afternoon.

Air mail service throughout the valley was disrupted during the winter because landing fields either were covered with snow or were too muddy to permit safe landing. The committee believes that if there were all-weather landing fields in the valley, the service would be disrupted only in extreme cases.

Appleton will not enter an air mail promotion campaign until the service is regular again, the committee decided. However, interest was shown in the state wide campaign which now is scheduled for late in May.

Interest in a lighted airway between Green Bay and Milwaukee also was shown and the committee wired Congressman George J. Schneider asking for whatever information he had.

MORE CARRIERS, BETTER SERVICE, ASSURED APPLETON

Postoffice Department Urges Drastic Changes After Inspection

A complete reorganization of the carrier system at the Appleton post-office is expected as the result of the recent inspection made here by the federal inspectors, according to F. F. Wettengel, acting postmaster.

The first step in the program to improve the delivery service to the people was the announcement Friday morning that a civil service examination will be conducted at the local office in May at which time applicants for position as postmen will take the regulation tests. Applications are to be accepted up to May 3.

After the examinations, and a number of applicants have qualified for appointment, the department will make a revision of the present carrier system, Mr. Wettengel said. One of the most important changes will be the inauguration of two complete mail deliveries per day on all but two of the city routes. Some of the most recent additions to the carrier system will benefit by this improvement in the service.

EXTEND SERVICE
Another feature of the proposed reorganization plan will be the inclusion on carrier routes of many sections of the city which are not now being served.

Mr. Wettengel pointed out that after the reorganization of the system had been completed the residents of Appleton would have a delivery system that could not be bettered anywhere in the country. He said the recent postal inspection here was made at his request for the express purpose of improving the delivery system.

At the present time many of the city carriers often do not start on their routes until late in the morning. Often the mail is so heavy that it cannot all be taken at once.

Under the reorganized system practically every carrier will begin his first trip about 7:30 in the morning carrying daily newspapers and as much first class mail as he can handle up to the starting time of his first trip.

U. S. WANTS TO HELP SOLVE OIL PROBLEM

In the proceedings of the Oil Conservation board had there been the slightest suggestion that it would be "permissible" to "turn off the spigot." The entire approach to the question had been on the side of conserving the oil in the ground. The committee of lawyers from the American bar association had gone over the question of curtailing production and administration officials were surprised that any proposal should be submitted which appeared to contradict the findings of the lawyers' committee of nine.

It is recognized that the individual states may have the right to make laws compelling production and use of oil properties but it is doubtful whether such power could be constitutionally sustained. So long as the problem of curtailment is limited to new production, it is unlikely that the federal government or a state government would impose serious objection; but, on the other hand, an abuse of power leading to high prices might develop. The committee of lawyers from the American bar association had gone over the question of curtailing production and administration officials were surprised that any proposal should be submitted which appeared to contradict the findings of the lawyers' committee of nine.

The federal government sees, of course, the possibility that oil will be supported over state lines can be subject to regulation as to price. Congress wishes to set up a rate tribunal analogous to the interstate commerce commission; that is, permitting a fair return on the investment and involving a recapture clause. But it may be said authoritatively that no such plan will ever be put forward by the Hoover administration and will not be considered unless the oil producers come to the government and ask for regulation as a way out of their difficulties.

FOR CONSERVATION
Conservation is still uppermost here as the controlling consideration in dealing with the oil question. While it is true that president Hoover did not announce his recent policy of curtailing production on government land with the idea of assisting the general problem of the oil producers, it is a fact that the government's policy has had the effect of emphasizing the needs for conservation. On that ground, measures looking toward the withholding of new wells will not be viewed with disfavor, though it is realized, of course, that the real problem is with the wild-catter who puts his well into production notwithstanding the desire of his neighbors to keep the well from being exploited.

The answer given here is that arrangements will have to be made with the states to set up a license system to govern the production of new wells. The significant thing is that while some of the lawyers who came here for the last conference thought the situation was more or less at a standstill, the federal government does not share their pessimistic view and believes a further conference between the federal conservation board and the oil producers and the state authorities may yet bring forth a workable program.

Play Leading Roles

Columbus, O.—Clarence Weiss, Appleton, upper left, and Esther Bubolz, Seymour, carried important parts in the Shakespearean play "Twelfth Night," which was presented here at Capital university last Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Miss Bubolz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bubolz, played the part of Olivia, and Weiss, son of Mrs. Helen Weiss, took the part of Malvolio, the male lead.

Weiss, though having played the leads in almost all productions by the local dramatic organization since he entered the Lutheran school four years ago, got his first taste of Shakespeare with this production. He has performed equally well in all types of character roles. He is president of the Masquers Dramatic Club, the organization which presented the Shakespearean play.

Both Miss Bubolz and Mr. Weiss are seniors in the college of arts and will graduate in June.

How To Play Bridge

BY MILES C. WORK

"The Auction Player unfamiliar with Contract is apt to be troubled by the big difference between Auction and Contract values for tricks, under-tricks, premiums, slams and rubbers, etc. The vulnerability feature of Contract is also apt to be confusing.

As a special service to our readers, Mr. Work will be glad to send you upon request, complimentary, a complete statement explaining all these new features, provided you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply. Mr. Work also answers all Auction and Contract questions without charge."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Last week, in considering what was required to justify a jump of partner's suit-bid, we found that there were four elements of strength which the assisting hand might have, viz., high cards, ability to ruff, more than four length in partner's suit (i. e. more than three cards) and a strong five-cards side suit. The counts allowed for high cards were fully explained. In determining the value of a hand for jumping purposes, these four elements must all be considered; but they are being described separately so they can be easily understood.

Climate Change Did Not Help Her

Restored by Sargon Mrs. Harnois now Sends the Medicine To Sister in Washington

"In the past twelve years I have spent thousands of dollars and traveled to every different climate I could find trying to regain my health, but it was a fruitless search until I found Sargon.

"A sluggish liver caused poisons in my system that made red spots break out all over my arms and body and my skin turned as yellow as gold. After every meal I would have a bloated, burning sensation in my stomach and sharp pains in my left side. I had such severe neuritis that I couldn't raise my arm to comb my hair. Constipation and headaches have bothered me nearly all my life.

"After taking Sargon my stomach is in fine condition and I eat heartily without the slightest discomfort afterwards. The red spots have disappeared, my complexion is a healthy color, and I'm looking as much better as I feel. The Sargon treatment toned up my liver and rid my system of poisons, which meant the last of my neuritis. I feel greatly strengthened and can work around the house all day and never have a pain or ache. I am no longer constipated and the headaches have been overcome.

"I feel like I've been made all over again and I'm in better health now than I've been in years. I sent some Sargon to my sister in Washington, and I know it will do her worlds of good."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. E. C. Harnois, who resides at 28 West 10th St., St. Paul, Minn. She has lived in St. Paul for twenty years and is highly regarded by her many friends.

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Brauer.

No Need For Boiling Tap Water, Hall

Advisable to Examine or Boil
Water from Surface Wells,
He Says

There is no need of boiling city tap water before using it for drinking purposes, according to A. J. Hall, superintendent of the city pumping station and filtration plant. In some cities in the valley many persons have complained that the water tastes different and are worried about drinking it. It was reported.

Appleton has little to fear in typhoid and dysentery breaking out here because of cross connections between piping systems carrying polluted water and those carrying a public supply. A recent bulletin from the state board of health asserts that five municipalities have joined the list where unnecessary sickness has resulted from permitting unprotected or faulty cross connections to exist.

A survey here has revealed that there is no place where flood waters could enter the city water wells or mains. There is danger, however, in the privately owned wells where surface drainage, due to high water gets into open wells, according to Mr. Hall. In this case it is advisable that water be boiled.

Basements which were flooded during the recent high water should be pumped dry and white-washed or disinfected with some antiseptic. Some form of chlorine will serve the purpose, according to the health bulletin.

VETERAN LEADERS AT CONGRESS HELM

Special Session to Rest in Hands of Experienced Men

Washington—(AP)—The fate of the special session of congress, called by President Hoover to deal with tariff revision and farm relief, will rest in the hands of tried leaders.

The senate will be piloted by the veteran James E. Watson of Indiana, who was selected for Vice-President Curtis' post.

On the Democratic side of the senate chamber, the minority party will continue to be led by Senator Robinson of Arkansas.

In the house, Republican leadership will remain unchanged. Nicholas Longworth, as speaker, John Q. Tilson of Connecticut as floor leader and Burton Snell of New York as chief clerk.

A new leader will appear for the Democrats, however, when the energetic Representative (Warner of Texas) takes over the duties laid down by Finis Garrett.

The duties of whip will rest with Senator Fess of Ohio.

The whip on the Democratic side will be Senator Sheppard of Texas, who knows by long service the importance of his office. The Democratic whip in the house will be Representative McMath of Alabama and Representative Vestal of Indiana will be the Republican whip.

TOURIST CAMP READY CARETAKER REPORTS

Although no campers have spent a night this year at the tourist camp in Alecia park, the camp is ready for tourists and may be used any time, according to Earl Lutz, caretaker.

The most recent rain made the grounds rather wet in places, but, continued fair weather soon will remedy this situation, he pointed out.

Once the season opens, the camp probably will be a scene of activity every night throughout the summer, Mr. Lutz predicted. It is still too early to expect tourists, as the weather has not been agreeable until the past week, and unpaid roads are, as a rule, in bad condition.

NEWSPAPER HYSTERIA

A certain newspaper of Chicago is conducting what in many respects is an hysterical and idiotic campaign against lawless methods of law enforcement. It devotes columns daily to an overdrawn and distorted picture of killings and the use of force by federal officers and agents, principally with relation to prohibition enforcement. There is no doubt but what many of these killings have been unjustified and constitute a flagrant misuse of authority, but it is also true, and this is a fact which this newspaper studiously overlooks, that all but a fraction of the efforts made by the federal government and the courts to uphold the constitution and the law are proper and worthy.

This particular newspaper is rabid because an innocent person here and there is killed or injured in the armed conflict between bootleggers and rum runners and the government of the United States. If it confined itself to the wrongs of these particular cases, it would be serving public policy, but when it sweepingly stamps the processes of governmental authority and power with criminal intent and criminal methods, it goes too far and weakens the whole fabric of government.

The newspaper to which we refer is not concerned about the crimes committed by rum runners, bootleggers, racketeers and other conspirators. It seems to assume that they have a perfect right to shoot and kill and violate the law. It neither remonstrates with them nor opposes them; on the contrary, its policy indirectly encourages them in their lawlessness. That the venom and poison it is spreading against the government of the United States, and its ridicule of even the highest public servants, have some influence seems to be demonstrated by the crime record of the city of Chicago. There are a hundred murders in that city to one mankiller in the federal government, men who daily defy law and authority and are the worst criminals on earth, but they are strangely tolerated.

Chicago's lawlessness is, of course, no defense for lawless methods of law enforcement. The latter should be corrected and stopped so far as it is practical in a contest with a veritable army of gunmen. But why not support the government in its legitimate attempts to cope with desperate criminals and conspirators, backed by millions of criminal wealth and criminal politicians?

DANGER OF ALCOHOL

The anti-liquor movement is no longer a fight against drunkenness, says Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcohol. The "old soak" has ceased to be a menace to society—he is only a menace to himself. Mr. Cherrington continues: "The man whom society needs to fear today is not the fellow who gets staggering drunk. It is the fellow who merely takes a drink or two and then, apparently perfectly sober, grasps the steering wheel of an automobile, the switch key in a train dispatcher's office, the stick of an airplane or one of the thousand levers in the highly electrified and mechanized industrial plants of today."

It is just as well to analyze this question logically and put the emphasis where it belongs, instead of substituting emotion for thought, as most people do nowadays when they discuss alcohol. Society has become very complex, its machinery has become enormously intricate and powerful. The man who in a simpler age could take a couple of drinks, or half a dozen, and do no particular harm, may now be a bull in a china shop. This is society's best reason for insisting on sobriety. The moderate drinker may be dangerous merely because his judgment becomes less accurate and his hand less dependable.

Most men and women of intelligence, in their calm moments, would readily admit this. But unfortunately there is always a tendency to regard oneself as harmless. It is the other fellow who needs control.

THE GASOLINE TAX

New York state held out nobly against the gasoline tax, but yields at last. The governor at Albany has signed a bill imposing a tax of two cents a gallon on the consumer. Now it is unanimous. Forty-seven states had set the example.

Consumers in the Empire state are naturally grumbling a little. But they may be assured by more experienced states that they "ain't seen nothing yet." The rate will go up. It always does. Ohio motorists are now kicking vainly against a new law raising the gas tax to four cents a gallon.

On the whole, this form of taxation has worked very well. It is a natural way to raise money for road improvement. But it is a dangerously easy way, as far as legislatures are concerned. Just another cent, and additional millions pour into the state treasury. And abuses develop almost inevitably.

Abuse No. 1—The tendency is to divert more and more of the motorists' grudging contribution not to road improvements, which have always given them some consolation, but to other public expenses in which they are less interested.

Abuse No. 2—The rural sections usually get a disproportionate share of such funds, so that the cities feel themselves robbed, and resent it.

Abuse No. 3—The liberal funds thus raised and spent, swelling state budgets far beyond their former size, offer new temptations to thriftlessness and graft, so that in several states, highway development, recently, a wholesome reform, is becoming a scandal.

AUTO TOLL IN ENGLAND

We have always been led to regard England as a safe and sane country, careful in all its goings and comings. It is quite a shock to learn from a British report that last year there were 1,247 persons killed and 54,461 injured in London, chiefly by automobiles and trucks. One person out of every 135 in the British metropolis was a street casualty.

The figures for the country as a whole are no less shocking. There were 6,138 persons killed on streets and highways, the vast majority of them by motor cars. That is nearly as many automobile fatalities as we have had in the United States, although allowance must of course be made for the fact that England is more densely populated.

Unfortunately we still excel greatly in the murder rate. That fact makes us humble. Otherwise we should be inclined to criticize our British cousins as shamefully careless of human life.

BI-NATIONALISM

A French editor, commenting on Ambassador Herrick, the beloved of France, says that he "had the mind of a Frenchman." The eulogist knew of no praise higher than that. Americans will naturally insist that he had the "mind of an American." The departed ambassador is regarded here as typical of our countrymen—or at least, typical of the best of us.

Can it be that the best of France and the best of America are really the same? That each group would be equally at home in the other country, and equally respected there? Is it possible that a man may be in spirit a patriotic citizen of two countries at the same time? Or even of several countries?

But we shall have to stop this line of thought. It might lead to an "international viewpoint." And that, to many Americans, is a terrible thing.

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

It seems to me that everybody in Italy had something to say about King Boris' attempt to become engaged to Princess Giovanna, except Daddy Victor Emmanuel, the Duke, Signor Mussolini, couldn't keep quiet if he tried, of course—but I'll bet that Boris was more afraid of having the Duke for his official stepfather-in-law than he let on. The princess didn't say anything, either. Maybe she didn't like the way Boris curls his mustache.

THE DARK BROWN THREAT

Any one who has ever tried his hand at amateur gardening or rose culture or any such difficult art will give a respectful attention to that gloomy scientist who predicts that the next age of man is going to be one of subjection to the insects.

The yellow peril may be only a bogey required for the successful propagation of business in the east. This dark brown threat, however, seems to be real. I never quite suspected what an enormous horde of cockroaches is overrunning the world until I blithely hinted here that I know of something that is very bad for 'em.

Like the plague of locusts and the swift and ruthless campaigns of Kansas grasshoppers, these cockroach invasions happen now here, now there, according to the reports in the mail. No sooner do we get a startling if not alarming local demonstration under control than another outbreak occurs at a distant point and urgent appeals begin to clog the mails from that sector.

Some people in a position like mine resort to the most amusing expedients in order to persuade the largest possible number of readers to write letters—it looks so impressive to get a lot of letters—indicates readers read your stuff, you know. I should publish the details of my secret method of making cockroaches wish they had never been born, only I am afraid to chance it. I'm intimidated by certain close calls that have happened in the past. So I just hate to play the game this way, but due regard for safety first compels me to reserve this information for readers who write in for it and inclose a stamped addressed envelope to bring the answer by private letter.

One reader, a physician, told me that prolonged freezing doesn't bother a cockroach much. He found a box or can somewhere that contained a large number of frozen cockroaches. They had probably been in that state weeks. He thawed them out and was surprised to see them hustling around as lively as ever. Then my colleague did a cruel thing. He put them all in the fire and burned them up.

After all, what harm does a cockroach do? He is one of the wisest insects known to man, and a scientifically minded student may learn a lot from this ubiquitous bug. We have no satisfactory evidence or reason to think that cockroaches or hen roaches act as carriers as disease or infection. They steal food, but not enough to worry us any. It really does seem a little cruel to kill them in view of their harmlessness to man.

However, if you are set on such wholesale murder, as you may fairly decide if they plague you or annoy you at all, make a thorough job of it and be done with it. Don't fool around feeding an occasional poisonous fly or trying to coax him to take it. Write me for the dread secret, and watch the roaches desert your habitation. They will, as one roach, for I tell you they're infinitely wicker than rats and as soon as they discover you are using my treatment they know they're up against bad medicine and they clear off in short order, not even stopping to gather up their dead.

You called us teachers a credible lot, but I prefer not to believe that.
(I. H.)

Answer—Of course I would not say that all teachers are credible, but certainly some of 'em are. I imagine your physician merely meant to tell you he knows of no cure for the trifling trouble you mention.
That does not mean the trouble will never get better; it seldom fails to clear up, in fact. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address, mention your trouble and I'll mail you some advice.

Lemon Juice
Kindly tell what benefit if any can be derived by drinking the juice of a lemon first thing in the morning? Do you recommend it? (G. P.)

Answer—Either lemon or orange or grapefruit or lime or tangerine juice is wholesome, healthful, refreshing, but slightly nutritious tends to produce acidosis and to keep the blood alkaline, etc. I do not recommend it, but I can see no harm in the practice if one likes it. I hope you entertain no silly notions about "reduction" by taking such food.

Tonsils and Voice
Please advise me how to strengthen the voice. Would removal of tonsils help any? (J. A. O.)

Answer—If the tonsils are infected or enlarged it is likely the voice would be impaired by their removal. In a large tabulation covering thousands of cases it was found that tonsillectomy gave many singers an additional half note in range and in only rare instances did the operation injure a singing voice. The way to strengthen the voice ordinarily is just by practice, of course, under proper instruction.

The Old General
Can you advise what to do for general neuralgia and neuritis? Every leader and nerve muscle in my body is sore. . . . (N. J. G.)

Answer—It is a large order, major. First, I should say, call in a general physician and let him examine the patient. You never can tell, he may discover what ails him.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER

Washington—The pastor of the Universal Church of Holiness is entrusted with the duty of seeing that United States senators are properly shaved, shampooed and wear their hair neatly trimmed while they are making laws in Washington.

For more than 41 years the Rev. John Sims, negro barber, has plied his tonsorial trade in the senate wing of the capitol building. And now for many years Sims has, on each Sunday morning, placed his clippers and razors on the shelf and made his way to the little church on the corner of Twenty-sixth and I streets to exhort his flock to follow in the path of the righteous.

There have been few figures on capitol hill in the last 40 years who were not known by John. And they all have known him. The number include everyone from presidents to senate pages.

But there is one thing John absolutely will not do, and that is talk about his clients.

"The reason I have been here 41 years is because I have kept my mouth shut," he says, "as long as I stay I will continue to do so."

BOSS BARBER
John no longer is a practicing barber. He now boasts of the title "general supervisor of the barber shop of the United States senate." It is his duty to see that senators are shaved properly.

He knows every wish and whim of his clientele, and he knows which one of his barbers can best fill the bill. Be he a vice president, justice of the supreme court or senator—it makes little difference. John knows what each wants and sends him away satisfied.

On a rack in the shop are 98 shaving cups—one for each senator. After each election John looks over his rack. Those senators who fail to return have their cups taken down. Fresh ones, with names inscribed in gold letters, take the place of the old ones. To call the names on the cups in John's rack is like listening to a roll call on the floor of the senate.

The cup of the defeated senator is always carefully wrapped up by John and sent to him as a reminder of the days when he was able to get a shave or a haircut free. For tonsorial service is another item on the senator's free list. The government pays four barbers $1,440 a year each to attend to the personal appearance of its upper house of congress.

AND HEAR HIM PREACH—
John's fame as pastor of the Universal Church of Holiness rivals that of his work-a-day profession. More than one senator has learned that the barber-minister is more than passingly familiar with his Bible, and many delight in hearing him warn of the wrath to come as he goes about his work.

And his clients are sometimes to be found at the little church on Twenty-sixth and I streets. The late Vice President Marshall is known to have heard John hold forth from the pulpit of the Universal Church of Holiness. Charles G. Dawes once took his wife, daughter and several friends to hear Pastor John.

merit, whether it is genuine autobiography or a sea yarn, is that it is not the usual "captain's daughter" story of the romantics. Life at sea is anything but heroic for the heroine of the story. She is spanked by her hard and unromantic father on the slightest provocation, and spanking in her case was not a trivial affair. It was the real thing. She is treated like a boy, and a tough boy at that, by the hardened sailors. There is no chivalry aboard that vessel and she holds her own not because she is a girl and is given special consideration but because she can fight and spit and kick with the best of them.

Now she learns about sex from the anatomy of a shark; how she wonders about shore mysteries that are commonplace to other children; how she fights and plays and suffers—all these things are told with great interest but in a style that is just too good to be wholly unpolished.

Adventures In The Library
By Arnold Mulder

A SEA YARN OR FACT?
We are told on the jacket of "The Cradle of the Deep," by Joan Lowell, that this slip of a girl who is the author of the book was telling the story of her early life to a couple of writers. They were so fascinated by it that they sat listening till almost dawn. "Why don't you make a book of that?" one of them asked. "I don't know enough words," the girl answered. They advised her to forget about words and to set down her story exactly as she told it to them, put in all the cuss words and write it any old which way, so long as she got her story across.

And that, we are told, she did. The result is "The Cradle of the Deep," an interesting yarn, highly amusing and full of dramatic force. I have no evidence to go except the story itself but I venture the guess that the book is not by any means as genuinely spontaneous and unsophisticated as the publishers would have us believe. I believe the volume is the work of a trained writer, probably a case of "spirit writing." Either Joan Lowell has made tremendous strides in education since she left her father's ship at 17 or there is another hand in the story. I suspect the latter.

It is significant that the book is published by the same firm that published "Trader Horn." The latter came out unpolished, a rough diamond, its charm consists in that fact. In the case of "The Cradle of the Deep" the same kind of appeal is tried for to me it just falls short of ringing absolutely true. A number of sea writers have extravagantly praised it but I remain unconvinced. There is a feel of the trained writer about it that it cannot prove but that obtrudes itself unmistakably.

But that is not necessarily against the book. Bearing it in mind, "The Cradle of the Deep" can be thoroughly enjoyed as a mighty good sea yarn. Much of it probably is fact but a good deal is almost certainly doctored up and made properly dramatic.

Joan Lowell was taken to sea by her father in his sailing vessel when she was 11 months old. She lived on that boat, the only girl among a crew of rough sailors, until she was 17. Then fire broke out in the vessel and she and her father and several others were forced to swim three miles in a heavy sea to a life-ship. After that she lived on land.

The story of her life on that boat is told in detail. Almost nothing is left out. If you want to get a line on sailor profanity, Miss Lowell's book can give it to you. She claims to have been able to rip off swear words for the minutes in succession and never repeat herself. Another of her accomplishments was to "split a curve in the wind." Several years of the education of her early life was taken up in learning this accomplishment.

Depend On Calendulas For Garden Of Flowers

An old-fashioned annual flower mentioned in Shakespeare, which has been adopted as a popular winter florist's flower, is the calendula or pot marigold. The old name of pot marigold is falling into disuse because the florists' trade always refers to them as calendulas and it is as calendulas that the newer race of gardeners has met them. They are annuals to be sown as soon as the weather is fit, as they are very hardy. They will self-sow if allowed to drop the seed, but as the seeds are large it is not satisfactory to sow them until they can be covered with soil as the percentage of loss in scattered seed on the surface of the soil is too large.

The modern development in calendulas has been the Ball type, huge orange flowers of astonishing size compared with the old-fashioned types. A pale yellow Ball type has been added to the original orange.

The latest new calendula comes from England under the up-to-date name of "Palla" and will be tried by many gardeners as some American seedmen are offering it this year. This is said to be a globular type with quilled petals of the most intense orange yet developed in calendulas. It will have to live up to its foreign reputation to compete with Ball type but will be an interesting addition to the garden.

The calendula will stand almost any quarters and give bloom, even some shade, but it needs good soil and plenty of sun to do its full duty. It is an annual of long blooming season and given a early start it will flourish from July until cut down by killing frosts, giving a succession of bloom. The bloom is encouraged by keeping seeds pods picked. It is one of the fine annuals for cutting

TARIFF STUDIES ARE NEARING END

Result Will Show That "Log-rolling" Boosts Have Not Helped Farmers

Madison—(AP)—A series of tariff studies, financed by W. T. Rawleigh, Freeport, Ill., manufacturer, and made by economists E. H. Hibbard, John R. Commons and Selig Perlman of the University of Wisconsin, showing that "log-rolling" boosts of tariffs have not inevitably worked to the benefit of farmers will be made public in the near future by these men, they announced Monday.

In a preliminary statement, Professors Commons, Hibbard and Perlman, authors of several economics statements in recent years that have attracted wide public attention, said Mr. Rawleigh had financed the investigation with instructions only "to find the truth."

"These investigations show, as exactly as possible," the preliminary announcement said, "where the farmers will gain and where they will lose on each particular commodity. Not every commodity will be included, but only the most important. The investigations show the results of existing tariffs, and the estimated results of the tariff increases asked by the farmers' representatives and by the manufacturers' representatives."

"Among other important commodities on which reports will be made are sugar, cotton, meat products, dairy products, corn wheat, barley, flaxseed and lumber, besides several manufactured articles."

The farmers' representatives before the congressional ways and means committee have agreed, the statement said, on advances in the tariff on various farm products.

"Manufacturers of products used by farmers are also asking advances, while others are content with the present high tariffs."

"Formerly the Democratic party opposed high tariffs and this opposition had some effect in preventing the Republican party from raising the tariff rates too high. Now the Democratic party is not in opposition, but is also asking for high tariffs on farm products."

and not many seed pods are given a chance to ripen in the average garden owing to the demand for the bloom for house decoration.

These annuals seem to stand closer planting than their size would justify under ordinary circumstances, six inches apart seeming to accommodate them nicely; the branches, if unclipped and giving a solid mass of the soft green foliage surmounted with scores of the fine orange and yellow blooms.

BIGAMIST IS MURDERER OF SECOND WIFE

Says He Hoped to Straighten Out Finances Through Illegal Marriage

Elizabeth, N. J.—(P)—Henry Collin Campbell, 60-year-old civil engineer and bigamist, was in jail Friday as the confessed slayer of one of his wives whom he shot and set afire.

The arrest and confession police said, cleared up the mystery of the killing of a middle aged woman, whose body, with a bullet wound in the head, was found floating in the roadside near Cranford, N. J., on the morning of Feb. 25.

Campbell was arrested as he was about to enter the apartment where he lived with his first and legal wife and three children. He was taken into custody a few hours after the body of the victim had been identified as that of Mrs. Benjamin S. Mowry of Greenville, Pa., a nurse. In his pocket detectives found a loaded pistol.

In his confession he told he became acquainted with Mrs. Mowry through a matrimonial agency in Detroit. He said he had been in financial difficulties and hoped to clear up his affairs by another marriage.

He said that after a brief correspondence he met the woman at Washington. Later he met her again at Philadelphia, whence they drove to Elkhart, Ind., where they were married Aug. 28 last.

SHE DEPOSITED $1,000
The next day the woman deposited a check for $1,000 to their joint account. He then returned to Westville, N. J., where he was then living and she returned to Greenville.

In February she met him at Dover Del. They drove to Cranford, and while they were driving along there was an argument because she wanted to go to the home which he had promised to prepare for her.

Then he shot her while she dozed in the seat beside him. He drove a short distance, stopped the car and dragged the body to the roadside. He took a can of gasoline from the car, poured its contents over the clothing and set fire to it. The body was discovered by John Doyle, driver of a bakery wagon.

MICHIGAN VILLAGE HARD HIT BY FIRE

Eleven Buildings Destroyed

—Total Loss Is Estimated at $75,000

Manistique, Mich.—(P)—A small store and a few houses were all that remained Friday of the village of Gould, City located east of here, after a fire, aided by a 60 mile wind, destroyed 11 buildings, and caused a loss of approximately $75,000.

The village was virtually wiped out by the fire which started Thursday in the Lyman hotel and quickly spread to adjoining buildings. Guests at the hotel were forced to flee in their night clothes, some of them leaping from the windows. Many residents fled from their homes in scanty attire into the cold weather.

The village has no fire fighting equipment and when the blaze broke out the townspeople could do nothing. An attempt to telephone to the Manistique fire department for aid failed when the fire was discovered to have cut the village from outside communication when it swept through the telephone exchange.

Intense heat made it impossible for the residents to retrieve anything of value from their homes or places of business. A quantity of stamps were lost in the destruction of the postoffice.

Only the Soo Line railroad tracks prevented the destruction of every building. The fire, the origin of which is unknown, failed to jump the tracks to the one store and a few houses on the north side of the tracks.

The fire was the second to visit this vicinity. Tuesday two residences and a church in the deserted lumbering town of Thompson, five miles west of here, were leveled by fire.

TWO APPEALS FOR BUILDING GRANTED

Board Rules It Has No Jurisdiction Over Third Appeal

Two appeals from ruling of John N. Welland, building inspector, were granted by the board of appeals at a meeting at the city hall Thursday night. On a third appeal the board ruled that it had no jurisdiction over the matter, and the appeal probably will be carried to the common council.

The appeal of Richard Ganzel, 726 E. River-st., for construction of a garage, was granted on the grounds that it was a case of necessity. Because of the contour of his property, no other site for the garage was available.

Victor Captain was allowed a permit to build a basement under his home at 303 N. Mason-st. The application for permit was not granted by the building inspector because the proposed plans did not conform with the zoning ordinance. The board made exception in this case, however, because there was no other alternative.

The board decided it had no jurisdiction over the appeal of Mrs. Magdalene Rigdon, 214 W. Pacific-st., who is seeking to remodel her residence for light housekeeping rooms. Final decision on the appeal probably will be made by the common council.

Piano Soloist

Russell Danburg, piano soloist and accompanist with the Lawrence college glee club, which will present its home concert at Memorial chapel Monday evening, is a brilliant soloist and a sympathetic accompanist. He is a student of Gladys Ives Brainard, and a sophomore at Lawrence Conservatory. In his native state, South Dakota, he was holder of a number of state awards for excellence in piano technique.

STUDENTS SHOW HUGE INTEREST IN BUTTERFLIES

With open-eyed amazement and a constant barrage of questions, the kiddies in the kindergarten at Jefferson school are watching the metamorphosis of a green woolly caterpillar into a fluttering butterfly. They don't understand how the caterpillar can weave a cocoon, and how in the world the newborn butterfly gets out of it when there aren't any doors or windows, but nevertheless the daily progress of the cocoon fascinates them.

Caterpillars by the dozen are brought into the kindergarten room, and each finds his corner in the wire cage used for this purpose. Cocoon cases are being spun in the corners, on paper boxes, on branches, and on carrot tops. At present all interest is concentrated on a large cocoon that it is hoped will produce a cecropia butterfly and if Fate doesn't turn tables on the children by holding the grand opening over weekend, the boys and girls are due for a magnificent demonstration of the ways of nature.

HIJACKER SLAYS TWO RACKETEERS

Unarmed Pair Shot Down in Detroit Shot During Hunt for Marauder

Detroit—(P)—Two Detroit racketeers started out apparently unarmed, to "get" the man who hijacked their bling pig at 4 o'clock Friday morning and were slain by the hijacker two hours later.

The dead men are Earl Remington 35, and Gordon Teter, 30. Both have criminal records. Teter was free on $7,500 bond from Chicago where he was indicted several months ago on a charge of counterfeiting, and Remington has a Detroit police record.

Remington and Teter found the gunman, whom they apparently accused of hijacking their blind pig of $400, in a cabaret at 5:30. An argument followed and finally one of the men suggested that they "settle it in the street."

Residents of the district heard three shots fired about 6 o'clock and looking out of windows saw the gunman bending over Teter's body on the sidewalk. He fired two more shots into the body and then chased Remington, who fled between houses and down an alley. One more shot was fired. Remington's body was found on a nearby street.

The slayer returned to his parked automobile, wiped his pistol carefully placed it in the seat beside him and drove slowly away.

MAY PLAN MEMORIAL DAY-FETE NEXT WEEK

Plans for observing Memorial day probably will be started next week at a meeting of the permanent committee of representatives of veterans' organizations and patriotic groups in the city, according to C. E. Peterman, president of the committee. No date has been set for the meeting but Mr. Peterman stated Thursday it was his intention to call the first meeting early next week. George C. Dame is secretary of the committee.

SCARLET FEVER IS STILL SPREADING THROUGHOUT CITY

13 Cases Now Exist in Appleton, Health Authorities Report

With scarlet fever continuing to spread throughout the city, health authorities Friday reiterated their former warning to local residents to guard their health with extreme care.

From about a half dozen cases several weeks ago, the number under the jurisdiction of the department has increased to 13. It is reported by Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer. Reports of new cases have been coming in steadily during the last two weeks, and there apparently is no immediate let-up in sight.

With these facts in mind, health authorities urge parents to call in doctors immediately upon the discovery of illness in a family. Not only will prompt attention save considerable suffering and inconvenience, but it will decrease the danger of contagion for other people, officials pointed out. The 13 patients with scarlet fever are divided among eight families, Mr. Sanders reported.

Besides scarlet fever, whooping cough, chicken pox, and measles also are having their run in the city. Fourteen cases of whooping cough, and two each of chicken pox and measles, have been brought to the attention of health authorities. The majority of victims, including scarlet fever, are children.

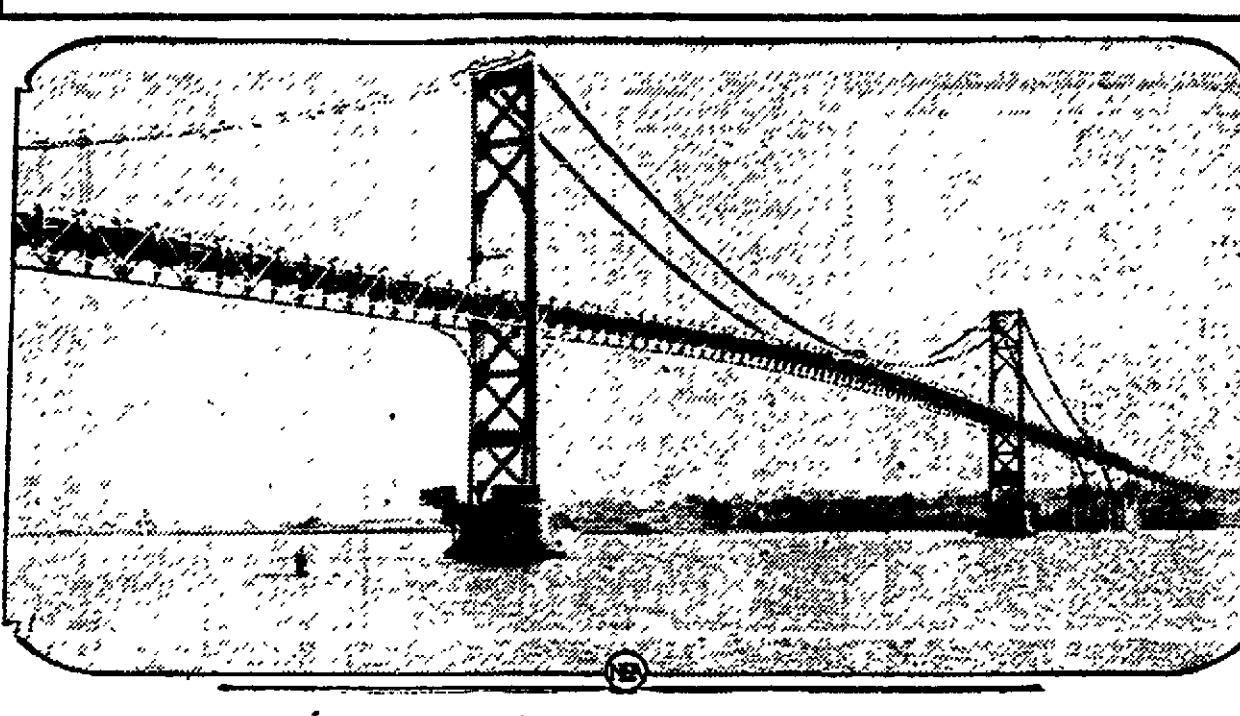

One patient also has been under quarantine for diphtheria, but the quarantine will be lifted Saturday, Mr. Sanders reported.

ERROR OF ONE VOTE DECIDES ELECTION

Randolph—A tie vote at the April 2 election between J. W. Jung and A. T. Zieman, candidates for village trustee, was decided in favor of Jung Thursday by the board of canvassers in a formal recount. The official check showed Jung, the incumbent elected by a vote of 225 to 224.

Zieman has five days to appeal the result to the courts. The question of municipal ownership of the local electric and water system was an issue in the voting for the two candidates.

Bridge Not Finished, to be Torn Down

Because it was discovered that some of the steel cables had broken, this big new suspension bridge between Providence and Newport, R. I., now 85 per cent complete, must be dismantled and new cables installed. Already workmen are cutting the 50,000 rivets that hold the steel together and when they finish dismantling practically nothing but the towers will be left standing. The parts will be stored and re-erected later.

Oust English Postmaster Because Of Controversy

London—(P)—The little Anglesey town of Llanfairpwllgwynglgogerychwyrndrobwllllandsylllogogoch h pronunciation of these over-size name of 58 letters challenges the tongue of all except those most expert in the ancient language of Wales, has just won a case from the government which finally was aired in the House of Commons.

The English translation on the name is: "St. Mary's Church-On-The-Hill-Of-Whitehazels-Near-The-Whirlpool-By-The-Church-Of-Dysilio-Near-The-Red-Cave." The inhabitants are proud of this polysyllabic cognomen and jealous of its fame.

"Llanfair P. G." as the natives call the place until they are old enough and long-winded enough to pronounce it, suffered the outrage of having an Englishman appointed as its postmaster. It was just too much for the sentimental feelings of the citizenry. Besides Postmaster Crick could not speak Welsh.

Sir Robert Thomas, member of the House of Commons for Anglesey, held up the legislation of the Empire while Parliament discussed the issue. Indignant Welsh members declared the name of their home town had been misspelled in the parliamentary calendar; others called on Michael Thomson, the Postmaster General, to try and pronounce it.

"It begins with Llanfair . . . and ends with gogoch," announced the Cabinet member triumphantly. "Perhaps with all this infuza about I had better not pronounce it."

Then amid cheers he announced the capitulation of the government. Postmaster Crick had resigned. A Welshman would be appointed to the post.

Sir Robert Thomas took one more shot at the Government. He insisted that the new postmaster be able to pronounce the town's name . . . and he rolled, gurgled, sputtered, gasped and grieved each and every syllable. Breathless, but triumphant, he sat down. The House of Commons roared with cheers.

Viscount Sandon brought Parliament back to its sense of responsibility. "Does this word count as one in a telegram?" he asked.

"Yes," answered the Postmaster General without the loss of an iota of ministerial dignity.

FLAG IS ERECTED IN COUNCIL CHAMBERS

The common council chambers on the second floor of the city hall took on a more official appearance Friday morning with the erection of a new flag, four by six feet, on the west wall directly to the rear of the mayor's desk. SCOUT EXECUTIVE EXPLAINS TROOP PROGRAM BUILDING

Speaks Before 61 Men and Boys at Second Training Course Session

The philosophy of troop program building taking into consideration the moral, physical, mental and social characteristics of a boy, was discussed by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive at the second session of the scout leaders' training school conducted at Armory G. Wednesday evening.

E. J. Morris, Milwaukee boy scout executive who was to have given an address on the Patrol Unit in Scouting was unable to be present. He will talk on that subject at the next session of the school next Wednesday evening at the armory.

Sixty-one men and boys attended at the Wednesday evening session and ten new members were admitted to the class from Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and Kaukauna. They are Robert Wood, Roy Casperson, Albert Walbek, Olin Dryer, Albert Gardner, George Nolting, Joseph Gillman, Mark Magen, Wallace Mooney and Robert Wichman.

"In order to build a well balanced troop program it is necessary that the moral, physical, mental and social well being of a youngster be taken into consideration," Mr. Clark stated. He also emphasized the various duties of patrol leaders and told about the qualities expected of a leader.

Five patrol problems were selected and will be worked out by the patrols before the next session, according to Mr. Clark. The Mule and Crow patrols exhibited knot boards which were completed during the past week. All of the knots which a scout is required to know were exhibited on a large board.

The project selected for next week is signalling. Each troop is to work out a system of effective signalling, either by flashlight, buzzers, flags, or other methods.

The mules patrol is leading with 30.8 points in the activities race. Points are awarded according to advancement in project work, studies and other parts of the program.

The Crow patrol has earned 19.7 points; Eagles 11.9; Owls 11.1, and Wolf 9.9 points.

WHY DON'T YOU MARRY, CURTIS' FRIENDS QUERY

Washington—(AP)—"P. S.—Why don't you get married?"

In the hundreds of letters which poured into the office of Vice President Curtis during his controversies with the state department over the social status of his sister and designated hostess, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, this naive suggestion was found more than once.

The idea always struck the broadly developed sense of humor of the vice president, but his only response was a chuckle and an occasional reflection that marriage was one of those things that was easier said than done.

Now that it is all over and he has won for his sister equal recognition with himself at official dinners, which was denied her by the ruling of former Secretary Kellogg, the usually quiet Charles Curtis is realizing that his first declaration as vice president created a real stir.

Just looking over his increasing stack of mail was enough to convince him that he had said and done something which at least was attracting attention.

He and Mrs. Gann will entertain at a reception for the diplomatic corps Friday night, one of the few official functions which is not affected by the dispute over her social rank, as her status as hostess in the vice president's establishment was never at issue.

At the first official dinner which was affected by the situation, Mrs. Gann Thursday night was accorded the same precedence she would have received if she had been the wife of the vice president.

The dinner was given by Ambassador Davila of Chile.

Drink enough milk—eat enough milk desserts

YOU can't have your full share of vitality without milk, and the children can't grow without it. A quart a day for children, a pint a day for grown-ups—so you serve the tall cool glassfuls.

Then if you are ingenious, you stir a little milk over a fire and make delicious custard, ... you put ice cream on your menu ... you whip up a delicious chocolate drink at times.

Some time try Chocolate Froth. This takes a level teaspoon of sugar, mixed in the bottom of the glass with 1½ teaspoons of cocoa and a few drops of milk, till smooth. Then add a few drops of flavor, fill the glass to the brim with milk, and shake the whole delightful drink in a jar or shaker.

The sugar blends the chocolate and milk flavors—just as it blends the flavors of other combinations of healthful foods. It is an ideal flavor itself—the best-liked in all desserts. Use sugar to induce your family to take their full portion of milk, cereals, and fruits. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

BANK APPEAL BILL
KILLED IN ASSEMBLY

Madison—(P)—The bill by Assemblyman E. G. Smith of Beloit, providing for bank appeals in the district courts instead of before the banking commission, which has often been amended and pushed through over parliamentary tangles has been killed after several other amendments.

Indefinite postponement was voted Thursday, after several other amendments had been presented. Also removed from the calendars was the Burnham bill for special compensation allowance to county highway committees under certain conditions, and after long discussion the assembly finally decided against it.

Assemblyman Piper's bill adding 12 new sections to the laws regarding coroners and their duties, deputies and pay, although there are sections now on the books covering the subject matter of the bill, was killed, after a long discussion on effect of the bill.

The Fronek bill providing that county judges issue the state drivers licenses, was reconsidered on motion of Assemblyman Edwards, and was finally passed.

Claim Robins Are Not
Harbinger Of Spring

Superior—(P)—To those who have always regarded the robin, even more than mild weather, as the harbinger of spring in Wisconsin, the statement of Prof. T. J. McCarthy of the state teacher's college here, will come as just one more proof that this is an age of iconoclasts.

According to Professor McCarthy the robin, far from being the first of the birds to following the retreating snow-line across Wisconsin, is one of the last of our summer visitors to arrive.

Early in February, the horned lark, somewhat resembling a sparrow makes his appearance in the fields and even in the city streets. After the lark comes the crows, sometime in March. These birds seldom go farther south than the northern part of Illinois or Iowa for the winter.

It is only in early April that the robins and thrushes appear on the hills and in the dales of the Badger state. However, they are not the very last to check in for the summer months. After them come the song sparrows and late in April, the first of the swallows, wrens and catsbirds.

All in all, some 150 varieties of migratory birds come to northern Wisconsin each spring, records at the Superior state teachers' college disclose.

There are other birds in the North Woods, however, who never leave their habitats there. Among these are the English sparrows, the chickadees, creepers, woodpeckers, ravens, owls, grouse and grosbeaks.

To those who would observe Wisconsin's bird life, Professor McCarthy gives this bit of advice: "Take your note-book to your door-yard, park, garden or farm yard and make ties and pay, although there are sections now on the books covering the subject matter of the bill, was killed, after a long discussion on effect of the bill.

The Fronek bill providing that county judges issue the state drivers licenses, was reconsidered on motion of Assemblyman Edwards, and was finally passed.

a record of each species of bird that you see. You will observe more of them there than on long walks through the woods."

BURGLARS RANSACK
TWO BUILDINGS AT FOREST JUNCTION

Break Into Railroad Station and Wichman General Store Early Today

Special to Post-Crescent.
Forest Junction—Two places were burglarized at about 1 o'clock Friday morning. The first establishment to be entered was the junction station of the St. Paul and North western railroads. The thief or thieves forced a door from the waiting room, which was not locked into the office of the station, apparently by means of a stove-poker from the waiting room. About $3 was taken from the cash drawer.

Gaining entry through a basement window and through a trap-door into the general merchandise store of M. P. Wichman and Son, the marauders then ransacked the store, screwing merchandise about, and even disturbing the display window. Shoes, overalls and an Indian blanket, of a total estimated value of between $40 and $50, were taken, and between $5 and $6 in cash and post age stamps were stolen. A brick cheese was cut, indicating that the thieves worked in a leisurely manner, and stopped for lunch. The poker from the railroad station was found in the Wichman store.

Buggy-wheel tracks were found at the rear of the store, but these may have been made on Thursday. No other clues as to the identity of the burglars were found.

The property belonging to the Salvation Army is valued at $100,000,000, of which about $40,000,000 is in the United States and $10,000,000 in Great Britain.

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug. Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. FULLY EQUIPPED

Ask the Salesman this Question:

EVERY prospective motor car purchaser should ask every salesman he talks to, this question: "What is the price of this car, delivered to me, fully equipped with all the equipment?"

You should also ask what the difference is between the factory (f. o. b.) price and the delivered price—and then ask what that difference buys.

Heretofore it has been customary for factory prices to cover only the bare car. This permits the dealer to sell you your bumpers and the other accessories, at retail prices.

Nash, in introducing the new "400"

Series, pioneered a new practice, by installing this extra equipment at the factory, at no extra cost to you.

When you ask the suggested question you'll find most salesmen (not Nash salesmen) reluctant to answer. They would rather not say how much more there is to pay, or what the extra money buys.

And you'll also find that by reason of the Nash policy, Nash "400" delivered, fully-equipped prices are much lower than those of many other cars with the same factory (f. o. b.) prices, and lower than some cars with even lower factory (f. o. b.) prices.

10 Sedans from $1016 to 2082, delivered.

SPECIAL SESSION TO PROVIDE EARLY TEST FOR HOOVER

Farm Relief and Tariff Expected to Supply Fighting Ground

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Washington—(P)—The special session of congress promises to provide an early test of strength of the Hoover policies on at least two major subjects and possibly others.

The first test will come on farm relief, which, with the tariff, will be discussed by the new executive in a message to the congress probably the second day it meets.

While Mr. Hoover has his own ideas on this subject, revolving principally around better marketing facilities, the Democrats in congress are threatening to raise an old issue by reviving a plan closely resembling the equalization fee. The Republicans, with increased majorities in both houses—15 in the senate and 100 in the house—see little chance of any such minority program being adopted, but they apparently will have to face a fight just the same.

The tariff will supply another test for the President. He wants the rate changes, outside the agricultural section, limited to a few schedules where economic shifts prove them to be necessary. Republican leaders have pledged to back him up on this, but they admit they are tackling a difficult task.

Still another test—not so important as the others—will be afforded by the effort of the Republican leadership to limit the session to consideration of farm relief and the tariff. The Democrats and even some Republicans are opposed to such restriction and are prepared to offer other bills. These, however, would develop in the senate, for the house has taken advantage of its rules and prepared to organize only those committees needed to handle the twin subjects.

Representative Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, would like to have the senate pass upon the house reapportionment bill. The house is ready to consider such a bill, provided the senate acts first.

Should the squabble over the national origins clause of the immigration act remain unsettled by the time the special session starts, it, too, may be injected into the proceedings.

President Hoover favors repeal of the clause, but under the law it will go into effect July 1 unless congress postpones the date. The effect of the provision would be to cut down immigration by about 15,000 a year, and increase the numbers already entered from England and other countries.

Interest will not be centered alone on legislation at the coming session. Many new personalities will be on the congressional stage for the first time and several veteran members will be playing higher roles. The senate will have a new presiding officer and majority leader in former Senator Curtis of Kansas and Senator Watson of Indiana. Robinson of Arkansas will be at his old post as minority leader.

The Republican leadership in the house will be the same, with Longworth of Ohio wielding the speaker's gavel for his third term, and Tilton of Connecticut again serving in his capacity as majority leader. The Democrats, however, will have a new floor leader in Representative Garner of Texas, who begins his fifteenth term at the opening of the seventy-first congress.

Garner will retain his post as ranking Democrat on the important ways and means committee. He is looked upon as spokesman for the minority on all financial matters and his voice undoubtedly will be heard time and again during the debates on the new tariff bill.

Seven new senators will make their bow at the session, and 70 new members will be among the entire membership to be given the oath in the house—three of them women. All Ruths: Ruth Baker Pratt, Republican, New York; Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, Illinois; and Ruth Bryan Owen, Democrat, Florida. Another new member is Oscar De Priest, negro, of Illinois.

POSTAL RECEIPTS FOR MARCH WERE $15,159

Receipts at the Appleton postoffice for March totaled $15,159.44, or $109.58 less than for March, 1927, which totaled $15,269.02, according to the monthly report of F. F. Wetzel, acting postmaster. Receipts for March were made up as follows: Sale of stamps, $14,471.49; excess on stamp sale, $8.03; second class postage, $401.45; permit matter, $287.39; box rent, 90 cents; miscellaneous, $9.51.

Fireworks, Zinc Found In Ordinary Cow's Milk

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Ithaca, N. Y.—(P)—Seven surprising elements have been found in cow's milk. They are substances never before identified in the lactical fluid.

One of them is strontium, which is the base of the red fire of July Fourth celebrations. Another is titanium, an element that supplied the smoke screens of the world war. Vanadium, well known in building and commerce; lithium, which has lent its name to some kinds of springs, and silicon, one of the main constituents of the earth's crust, are among the finds. The others are rubidium, which makes silvery coatings on the inside of radio tubes, where it absorbs gas thereby preserving the vacuum and the service of the tube; and boron, which is exhaled by volcanoes as boracic acid.

Discovery of these elements was made possible by recent developments at Cornell university in spectroscopic photography. The work was done by Dr. Jacob Pappish and Dr. Norman C. Wright of the Hanna Dairy Research Institute, Scotland. A dozen other elements, including zinc, copper and potassium and previously identified in milk, were verified by the Cornell method. The milk was dried, burned to ashes and sufficient electric current applied to the ash to convert it into luminous vapor. But this light, photographic plates registered the spectra, the lines of which revealed the presence of the elements.

Whether these newly found substances are significant to nutrition, remains to be determined. Their quantities are announced as "small but definite."

The research disclosed that some of these elements may get into milk through the diet of the cow. Unusual amounts of zinc were found in one sample, which was traced to animals pasturing near the zinc smelters at Franklin, N. J. The American milk samples produced the newly found elements come from New York, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri and California. The British samples were from Somersetshire, Derbyshire and Aberdeenshire.

The table of elements formerly identified in milk shows in comparative "large quantities" calcium, magnesium, potassium, sodium, phosphorus and chlorine, and "traces" of iron, copper, aluminum, manganese and iodine.

NOBODY KNOWS IF ROBINSON PLANS TO QUIT HIS JOB

Rumors of Radio Commission Chairman's Resignation Unconfirmed

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1929 by the Consolidated Press Association

Washington—Persistent rumors that Chairman Robinson of the federal radio commission will resign to remain unconfirmed although it is known that he is considering several offers to return to private practice of law.

Latest reports linking the name of Judge Robinson with a new chain broadcasting enterprise in New York are denied. This same report associates Carl H. Hutman, commission secretary, with this concern, recently granted experimental wave lengths by the commission and now said to be in process of organization. Both officials have been approached by the sponsors of the enterprise, but both discredit the reports that they in any way have obligated themselves.

Judge Robinson. It is learned on excellent authority outside of Washington has been tendered an offer by the Congress Clear company of Philadelphia to become its chief counsel. Williams S. Paley, president of this company, also is president of the Columbia Broadcasting system. Judge Robinson himself is non-committal. It is presumed that should Judge Robinson eventually become affiliated with the Paley company, he also would be available to advise the Columbia system in its legal matters.

Sam Pickard, former radio commissioner, resigned last February to become vice president of the Columbia system. This chain, the competitor of the National Broadcasting company, is now in the process of a national expansion program. It already has a 43-station chain in operation, as a coast-to-coast network. "PUBLIC COMES FIRST" Since he assumed office just one year ago, Chairman Robinson often has enunciated his views of public service. He has adhered steadfastly to the opinion that "public service comes first" and at all times has maintained that he would consider the existing state of conditions in radio before relinquishing voluntarily his public office. Whether or not he plans to retire from public life apparently rests with future developments in radio administration. It is most improbable that he will make a decision before summer.

The New York enterprise which is represented as having negotiated for the services of the two officials claims the development of a system of broadcasting that will revolutionize existing methods. This is understood to be one of several plans regarding local chain broadcasting which it has to submit to the commission. The principle of synchronization, the company informed the commission, would be to link more than 200 local stations on the same channel, thus covering the country, and effecting a tremendous saving in chain costs. Two short wave channels would be employed to "control" the broadcasting channel and strengthen the omitted signals carrying the program. Recently the commission granted the group experimental licenses for this work, although its engineers were skeptical about its feasibility.

LOST AIRSHIP AND AVIATORS ARE LOCATED

Plane's Message Says That Four Airmen of Southern Cross Are Safe

Sydney, N. S. W.—(AP)—After being lost 12 days in one of the wildest and most inhospitable regions of the world Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions of the trans-Pacific airplane Southern Cross were located Friday.

After messages from the plane Canberra to a radio receiving station at Darwin, northern territory, related the sighting of the missing plane, which came from California to Australia. The Canberra said the four fliers appeared safe and well. Food was dropped to them, sufficient to satisfy a want which it was feared had become acute. A steamer Friday will leave to pick them up.

Captain Holden, piloting the Canberra, gave the plane's location as on a mud flat about 20 miles south from Port George mission station, which is located on the Prince Regent river about 130 miles east of Derby. This location would indicate that when Captain Kingsford-Smith sent the message just before he made his forced landing nearly two weeks ago that he was "about 100 miles east of Wyndham" he was in plain view of hundreds of miles off the path from Sydney to Wyndham, a lap which was to be the first of an attempt to break the flight record between Australia and England.

RESCUE PLANS UNKNOWN
While the Canberra did not say so, it was assumed no landing was possible in the area in which the Southern Cross was down and pending definite word from those who have undertaken the search for the aviators it was not known here what form their rescue would take. It was presumed a combination of launch and foot parties, guided by airplanes, would be resorted to.

There was in the sighting of the men a reminder of the death of Captain Roald Amundsen on a mission of rescue for his former enemy, General Umberto Nobile. Lieutenant Keith Anderson, bitter rival of Kingsford-Smith, himself has been missing for more than 48 hours after flying into the wilds of northwestern Australia in search of the Southern Cross.

The search for him may present a problem every bit as difficult as has been that of the plane just found. The brief messages of the Canberra told a dramatic story of the culmination of the days of searching. The first message at 9:45 a. m. (local time) said: "After visiting the Port George mission, we shall search all the bays and inlets as far as Cape Londonderry." (Cape Londonderry is the northernmost point of western Australia.)

FOOD IS DROPPED
At 11:31 a. m. came the message that the plane had been sighted and food dropped to the crew. That there might be no doubt as to the good news the message was repeated.

At 11:33 a. m. the Canberra radioed to the Southern Cross, "If you can hear us walk into open ground." Five minutes later the Canberra told the Darwin station, "they must be hearing but haven't seen them."

At 12:35 the Canberra radioed: "The Southern Cross is approximately 20 miles from the Port George mission. Can see whole crew now." Even later came another message setting the direction as south from Port George and describing its resting place as a mud flat.

8TH GRADE STUDENTS TAKE PART IN PLAY

In addition to the dramatization a recitation, "The Dog Story," by John Thomas Brown, was given by Miss Mamie Chalk; a violin solo was played by Ewald Tilly; and a group of songs was sung by Marvin Greene, Gordon Heule and Walter Dumke. The boys sang "Those Fals

MR. GANN INNOCENT CAUSE OF CAPITAL'S SOCIAL DIFFICULTY

Doesn't Care for Society, but Must Tag Along With Wife, Curtis

By RODNEY DUTCHER
(Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.)
Washington—The perfectly innocent and personally inoffensive cause of Washington's latest horrendous social war appears to be Mr. Edward Everett Gann.

If there were no Mr. Gann, inquiry reveals, there probably would be no social war.
Mr. Gann is the modest, unassuming husband of Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann. Mrs. Gann is the sister and "official hostess" of Vice President Charles Curtis, who made a very loud and public squawk the other day when retiring Secretary Kellogg of the State Department gave her an official social ranking below that of the wives of foreign diplomats.

MR. GANN GOES, TOO
When Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Gann are invited to an official function Mr. Gann must tag along, too.

If he were always to be left behind it would cause a great deal of talk and he might easily become the most snickered-at man in the United States. Furthermore, Washington society and the State Department admit that a woman's social rank is equal to her husband's, and vice versa, so it is virtually out of the question to invite one Gann and not the other.

Also Mrs. Gann is devoted to her husband and doesn't intend that he shall be slighted. Curtis is devoted to the Ganns and they equally to him. They stick together and if Washington society accepts one it must accept all three, even though there's a hitch over their relative precedence.

Your correspondent is informed that Mrs. Gann recently refused an invitation to an affair because Mr. Gann wasn't also invited. She is said to have written to remind the hostess, in effect, that she had a perfectly good husband.

Everyone seems to agree that there would have been little question about accepting Mrs. Gann as the vice president's social equal if it hadn't been for the problem of Mr. Gann. The hostesses faced the fact that they must not only invite Mr. and Mrs. Gann when they had the vice president, but also a lady for Mr. Gann so things would come out even. And poor Mr. Gann has no official social position at all.

problem and find out just what was expected. Secretary Kellogg gave a decision demoting Mrs. Gann from the high place she expected to fill and then took a fast boat for Europe, leaving Secretary Stimson to decide on the vice president's protest. The latter since ruled that it is not a matter for the State Department to rule on.

Naturally, one wonders just what Mr. Gann thinks about it all. Mr. Gann lives with Mrs. Gann and Vice President Curtis in the swell vice presidential suite at the Hotel Mayflower. He himself is an able lawyer and represents the Van Sweringen interests as eastern counsel for the Nickel Plate railroad. He has a law firm of his own and does considerable corporation practice, often appearing before federal departments or commissions.

Unfortunately, Mr. Gann is the shrinking violet of the family. He isn't saying anything at all. He has let his friends understand that he doesn't want any official status and doesn't expect any, but that he is in complete sympathy with Curtis and the latter's sister.

HE DOESN'T EXPECT HONORS
Mr. Gann is perfectly willing to sit at the foot of the table or stand at the end of a line. He will take Mrs. Gann there and back, but he doesn't expect to be parked alongside her while he is there and whatever the hostess does about him is quite all right.

Some of his acquaintances even say that Mr. Gann is a mild and gracious person who doesn't enjoy being dragged along at all. Apparently no one has considered the thought of letting Mr. Gann stay at home and play solitaire or sit around playing with his thumbs in the Mayflower lobby.

Before Curtis became vice president the Ganns entertained and went out quite a bit. They were often guests of Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Jardine, fellow Kansans. But Mrs. Gann began to plan her social future as soon as Curtis was nominated and some of her troubles are said to have been due to the resentment of other women. The mild and inoffensive Mr. Gann, who always hangs back and looks for an inconspicuous place, has been in Washington for a long time. In 1910 he came here from Kentucky to be an attorney and examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission. He had graduated from the Jefferson School of Law in Louisville, and his first government job included investigations of railroads and telephone companies.

In June, 1915 he married Dolly Curtis, who was secretary to her brother and had been one of the first women secretaries on Capitol Hill. His new association with Curtis widened his range of contacts and presumably aided his success as a lawyer.

Intelligence and psychology tests have reduced the turnover in the Grand Rapids, Mich., police force greatly, says Col. James Stinke, director of public safety.

NEW SUGAR TARIFF WOULD HURT FARMER

Proposed Rate Would Cost Rural Families $5 More a Year

Madison—(P)—The proposed tariff on sugar will cost the average farmer's family $5 more a year than the present duties exact, according to the second of a series of tariff studies being made by three University of Wisconsin economists, B. H. Hubbard, John R. Commons and Selig Perlman for W. T. Rawleigh, Freeport (Ill.) manufacturer. In their first study, the economists reported that "log rolling" boosts of tariffs have not inevitably worked to the benefit of farmers.

Under the present duty, the American farmer, the economists report, pays $10 a year, and if the proposed higher rate is effected, the costs will be increased to $15 a year.

In their reports, the Wisconsin professors say:

"About 6,300,000 farmers' families will pay this tax and about 8 per cent of the farmers' families will be benefited about $48 each."

The proposed tariff will raise the tax burden from 2.45 cents a pound to 3.7 cents a pound, the report says. This will force farmers to pay $97,000,000 more than under the present rate.

According to the information released today, the government receives $124,000,000 on a five-year run, while the tariff would be increased to raise a revenue of $213,000,000.

From his palatial home at Great Neck, Long Island, Harry Sinclair, oil millionaire, must prepare to move for a 90-day period to the District of Columbia jail, according to a ruling of the United States supreme court. The high court affirmed the sentence of the District of Columbia supreme court, which was the penalty for Sinclair's refusal to answer the questions of the Senate Public Lands Committee investigating the Teapot Dome oil scandals. GAME BOARD MUST BE DIVORCED FROM STATE LEGISLATURE

No Adequate Conservation
Until They Are Apart,
Smith Avers

Williams Bay—(P)—A conservation commission remote from the state legislature is the way to bring about "real conservation in Wisconsin," according to O. W. Smith, widely-known as angling director and editor of "Outdoor America," who addressed the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters in session here Friday.

"I have come to the conviction that we will not get very far in real conservation in Wisconsin until the whole matter of conservation—fish, game, forestry and water supply—is given over into the hands of a carefully selected conservation commission," the speaker, popularly known as "Outdoor" Smith, told the meeting.

No state has been so blessed by nature, and none so careless of its natural resources as Wisconsin, the speaker pointed out, adding that the great evils that must be overcome to make the Badger state nature-lover's paradise, are problems of sewage, power dams and the paper industry.

De-forestation, which he described as "denuding," has worked ill in Wisconsin, he pointed out, explaining that work of the state fish hatcheries in stocking waters with fish is of little use in "water poisoned by industrial waste and sewage." This, Mr. Smith said, is a "municipal sin."

PROTECT PROPERTY
"Besides sewage, the dams interfere with migrations of fish, to which I attribute, in part, the poor fishing now to be had in the upper reaches of the Peshtigo," the speaker asserted.

Wisconsin's motto, according to "Outdoor" Smith should be "My rights end where posterity's rights begin."

"Posterity is going to need the voice of the wilderness more than we, for we have had a wonderful out of doors, an out of doors which, alas, is rapidly disappearing," the speaker concluded.

Another address of the session was by Prof. George Wagner, University of Wisconsin zoologist, who talked on the European Starling, a bird that has invaded Wisconsin and is held a pest.

He told its history, saying it was introduced into this country in 1890 to combat the gypsy moth, but since has become a nuisance. First species, the professor said, found west of the Allegheny mountains were taken in Ohio in 1916, and the first found in Wisconsin were near Milwaukee in 1925. Since that time it has been found that the birds nest widely in the southern part of the state. Prof. Wagner explained, its northern limits being Green Bay on the east and Alma on the west.

WISCONSIN HOLDS MEDAL LINCOLN GAVE TO INDIANS

Madison—(P)—Abraham Lincoln's medal to "Last Day," Chippewa Indian chieftain of the Bad River reservation near Ashland, Wis., was described by Theodore T. Brown Madison, at a meeting of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Literature, at Williams Bay today.

John Cloud, grandson of Last Day gave the medal to a minister, who presented it to the state historical society. Lincoln gave the Indian the medal during a visit of eight Chippewa chieftains in the national capitol, saying:

"My children, when you are ready, go home and tell your people what the Great Father said to you. Tell them that as soon as the treaty with my white children is settled I will call you back, and see that you are paid every dollar that is your due, provided that I am here to attend to it. And, in case I am not here to attend to it myself, I shall instruct my successor to fulfill the promises I make you here today."

Paul B. Jenkins, Williams Bay recounted the history of the Lake Geneva band of Potawatomi Indians and Charles E. Brown, director of the state historical museum, presented results of an investigation of Indian camp and village sites on the Wisconsin-Illinois boundary.

MEALTIME STORIES

BY THE MAN-IN-THE-MOON

Of course we read the news on high
Things that happen in the sky.
When choicest meats we buy — you know —
The papers tell us where to go.

In this day and age people have learned that you get just what you pay for. Meat is no exception. Cheaply priced meat, of course, means cheap quality. Meat of the highest quality means slightly higher original cost — but less waste, less bone, and less fat — therefor healthier and more nutritious and so more economical in the long run. Voecks Bros. meat is for people who are glad there is a difference in meat.

SCHNEIDER SEEKS NATIONAL ORIGINS MEASURE REPEAL

Act Would Limit Immigration Quotas from Important European Countries

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Correspondent of the Post-Crescent.)

Washington, D. C. — Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton will work during the special session of Congress which convenes next Monday for the repeal of the "national origins" provision of the 1924 immigration act.

If this provision, branded a "legislative monstrosity" by the Appleton congressman, is not repealed, or its operation postponed, the quotas of Germany, the Irish Free State, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and other countries will be materially reduced on July 1.

President Hoover has repeatedly urged the repeal of this provision of the immigration law. As one of the members of the commission which attempted to work out fairly the quotas of the various countries under this provision, nobody knows better than he the inaccuracy and the unfairness of this method of establishing immigration quotas.

But he was helpless in the matter, since the senate refused in the closing hours of the Seventieth congress, to postpone its operation, as was proposed in a resolution adopted by the house of representatives the day before congress adjourned.

CAUSE REDUCTIONS
Unless the "national origins" provision is repealed, or again postponed, the following reduction will be made in the quotas of North European countries, from which come desirable American citizens in the opinion of even those who favor the national origins method: Germany, reduced from 51,227 to 25,957; the Irish Free State, reduced from 25,567 to 17,853; Sweden, reduced from 9,561 to 2,314; Norway, reduced from 6,453 to 2,377; Denmark, reduced from 2,789 to 1,181.

On the other hand, the quota of Italy would be increased from 3,345 to 5,802; that of Greece increased from 100 to 307; that of Russia increased from 2,248 to 2,784; that of Spain increased from 131 to 252; that of Austria, increased from 735 to 1,413; that of Turkey from 100 to 226.

The greatest increase of all would be in the quota from England and North Ireland, which would jump from 30,007 to 65,721. It was expected by the advocates of this provision that the quota of Great Britain would be increased, but it was certainly understood that the Greek, Italian, Russian and Turkish quotas would be increased, nor was it expected that the quotas from the Scandinavian countries and Germany would be so greatly reduced.

STORMY OPPOSITION
Still, in the face of these figures and in defiance of President Hoover's views, the "patriotic societies," such as the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Daughters of 1812, etc., vigorously demand that the "national origins" clause go into effect on July 1.

Congress has already twice postponed the operation of this provision of the 1924 law. The present plan for repealing the provision is for the senate committee on immigration and naturalization to report a bill and for the senate to pass it. It will then be considered in the house of representatives under a special rule, without having been referred to the house committee on immigration and naturalization. Representative Schneider hopes that the repealer will be passed in this way.

The reason for this procedure is that the house plans not to organize any committees except Ways and Means, Agriculture, Rules, and Accounts, in an effort to forestall a flood of legislation and limit the special session to farm relief and tariff revision.

In the senate, on the other hand, the committees are continuing bodies, and do not have to be re-organized with each new congress, as do the house committees. So, without opening the floodgates to general legislation, the senate can put the measure through and the house can pass it under special rule.

BUDLONG BILL ON BUS FARE PASSES ASSEMBLY

Madison — (P) — Despite objections from the Progressive Republican leader, the Budlong bill setting a maximum rate of 3.5 cents a mile for passenger bus was passed by the assembly 67 to 19 Thursday in hurried action.

Alvin Reels, Madison, leader of the Progressives, objected to the bill because he said it was opposed to legal regulation of fares, and added if such action was to become state policy he would like to limit the rate on electric current use.

Assemblyman Ernest Pahl, Milwaukee, characterized the bill as the "most vicious" he had seen in his legislative experience and said it was giving excessive power to railroad commission. Assemblyman Charles A. Budlong, Marinette, author of the measure, said Pahl was correct in urging less power to the commission, but interpreted the bill as setting the maximum figure the group can lay.

PROPOSED CHILDREN'S CODE GETS SUPPORT

Madison — (P) — Endorsement on three sides of the proposed children's code bill now before the legislature has been announced by the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work here.

In a statement the conference announced that the Wisconsin Congress of Parents and Teachers, through its committee on juvenile protection, has urged support of the code; that Assemblyman O. S. Lounis of Juneau endorsed the bill in an address before the Parent-Teachers organization at New Lisbon Monday, and that the American Legion of Wisconsin has issued a statement through Commander F. F. Hoeft, department adjutant, Austin A. Petersen, and James P. Barnes, child welfare chairman, in favor of the code.

Court Dressmakers Supply Rules For Debs

London.—(AP)—Court dressmakers are supplying curls with the dresses to be worn by society debutantes at the May courts.

Shingled hair now is considered slightly out of fashion and Miss 1929 who cannot coax a growth of curls at the back of her head before May 9, the date of the first court, will buy an emergency cluster from her favorite dressmaker.

Accessories, too, will be more elaborate than during the past few seasons. The queen has set the seal of her approval on three lovely designs to be used as guides for debutantes and matrons who will make their curtsy before her this year.

Skirts, in accordance with the latest fashion, are longer and show an uneven hemline, and bodies have the slight sleeve effect which court regulations demand. There is ample latitude allowed, however, for originality in details.

Satin mouseline and the softest of ring velvets are the favored choice of the dressmakers for court gowns this year. Chiffon still reigns as the popular fabric with draperies and other tricks of the dressmaker's art.

Points that should be noted by every debutante when choosing her presentation dress follow. They are based on the court regulations issued by the lord chamberlain.

1. Skirts are longer and should reach at least to the center of the calf. This effect may be obtained, however, by draperies and other tricks of the dressmaker's art.

2. Trains must be not longer than 18 inches from the heel when the wearer is standing.

3. The headpiece must consist of three plumes, arranged with the center feather slightly higher than the others.

4. Bouquets must not be too scented. Highly fragrant flowers become overpowering when multiplied by thousands in the warm throne room.

5. Fans must not be too large. Increasing numbers of presentations annually have resulted in more and more crowded rooms where it is almost impossible to unfurl a very large fan.

MOTHER WILLS DAUGHTER TO GRANDMOTHER

By ALLENE SUMNER
MS. MYRTLE FLANAGAN, 24, a roadhouse dancer, willed her little five-year-old daughter to her mother as she was dying.

The law is saying, however, that it would be a tract of land or money in the bank, and that regardless of the mother's will, the child must go to whomever the law designates, probably to her father.

Feminists might grow indignant at this, citing the injustices of women being the pain of childbirth, only to have no right to direct the destinies of their own children. And yet, here's one such a law.

It is a good thing. If women could legally will their children away like so many puppies, there would be as many injustices done to fathers as to mothers.

There are more wise and just women than men.

POCHETTE IS NAME FOR A VERY NEW BAG

A bag is an essential. Starting from that, where do we go, fashion-wise? Why, to the pochette. This is a modification of the pouched, heavy framed bag and the slim envelope shape. It combines some of the attributes of both. Moreover, it is, distinctively applicable to the women of the day, since many of the bags are of the same materials as the costume. Crepe de chine, patent leather and kidskin also are used.

CORSAGES TAKE FRONT PLACE BUT ARE IN THE BACK

Nearly anyone will buy violets. The difficulty most women have to day is knowing where to wear these and other flowers, both artificial and real. With the trend of evening dresses toward drapery only in the back the bouquet is frequently transferred from the corsage to the point where the bustle once held sway.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—

THE NEWEST and most interesting sports jewelry, recently created by Vionnet, is made of leather thongs and plain pieces of geometrically shaped gold metal.

TENNIS FROCK SHOWS LITTLE STYLE CHANGE

New York.—Tennis frocks for utilitarian purposes show little change this season. But tennis frocks for those who play tennis not to win but to be seen on the courts and the verandas show a remarkable difference.

The latter, in their latest phases consist of crepe de chine or shantung trouserettes, tighter at the top and looser at the bottom than the flannels of the men players, surmounted by white silk blouses.

CARTWHEELS OF STRAW BRING COLOR CONTRAST

A year ago the flat feather adornments were found on many hats in the shape of cartwheels in mass formation. Today these adornments are still a popular trimming but now they are made of straw. The cartwheels are woven of the finest and supplest braids for the rough hats and of rough straw for the finer braids of the crown. It is a simple way of introducing color contrast.

TROUSERETTE NOT CONFINED TO TENNIS COURT

The trouserettes are not confined to the tennis courts. Somebody has to do a turn once in a while for the pajamas and they have sought inspiration in the Argentine for their effects. The newest tea time pajamas are nothing more than a fancy dress costume of black velvet trousers, loose over the foot and lace across silver buttons with silver cord, a gay waist scarf and a white blouse.

THE SAINT SINNER

By Anne Austin
© 1929, by NEA Service, Inc.

"Am I in love with anyone? No." Crystal confessed frankly. "The truth is, Tony darling, that I've never been really in love, and now I'm not in any hurry to be. I've got to do a lot of work on myself before I'm fit to be a wife and mother."

"Don't sound an awful prig—taking myself so seriously?" she added.

"Not a bit of it!" Tony denied emphatically. "I admire any girl who dares to be serious in this riotous age we live in. Wish I dared. . . . There's the luncheon bell, honey. . . . Wonder if Nils and Cherry have made it up?"

"If I know Nils he behaved exactly as if there was nothing at all to make up, and Cherry was delighted to let it go at that," Crystal laughed. "That girl is like a blizzard. She darts in and out of trouble so fast that no one can give her the crushing heel she so richly deserves. . . . And I defy anyone to resist her."

The charming old farm house, lovingly and faithfully restored by Nils Jonson was furnished throughout with early American antiques, sturdily, prim, demure in their utter simplicity. In that atmosphere Cherry was the only incongruous note. Big Nils Jonson and his sturdy, deep-bosomed, broad-hipped sister Rhoda, being throwbacks in type to their Norwegian pioneer ancestors, were superbly at home.

The three of them were already seated at the luncheon table when Tony and Crystal, whose steps were still painfully slow, made their appearance.

"Gorgeous news!" Cherry cried in greeting, as she waved a yellow telegraph form at them. "Rhoda's singing teacher wires from New York that she's to have an audition before the impresario of the Metropolitan Opera Company. She's to leave Monday a week, and Nils says I can go with her—because I'm a good girl."

She added with a wicked grin at her husband.

During the flurry of comment and congratulations, Nils and Rhoda remained serene and unflustered.

Cherry was almost beside herself with excitement and happiness. She could not keep her ecstatic little fingers from Nils' hand, coat sleeve and hair. Tony's question was fully answered. Cherry and Nils had undoubtedly "made it up," and Cherry was in seventh heaven.

"Of course we've got to celebrate in a big way," Cherry bubbled. "What would you like most in the world to do, Rhoda darling? Oh, I'm so proud of you! Imagine being a sister-in-law to a Metropolitan prima donna."

"You'd better wait till we know how they like my voice," Rhoda said placidly. "Will you pass me the rolls, Nils?"

"Look at her!" Cherry cried, with laughing despair. "You'd think she never had a thought in the world above food! . . . Oh, there's the phone! I'll answer it."

When she returned to the table, ten minutes later, her little body was vibrating like a hummingbird's with excitement. "It was Dick Talbot! He found out somehow that you were here, Tony, so I invited him down for the weekend, and then I called up George Pruitt and Harry Blaine. Saturday—tomorrow—is Harry's day off, so they can both come. Be here tonight. Will you make whoopee? Lawks, dearies! Don't ask."

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Tines eyed the watering can and away from it they ran. "I do not think," said Conny, "that we'd better touch that thing. We do not know what is inside." Wee Clowny chimed right in and cried, "Well, I am going to find out. Maybe good luck it will bring."

"Be careful now," another said. "Remember, you're the one who led us way up here to Thundeland. I wish we hadn't come. If you have your way, I'll just bet you'll get us into trouble yet. You've often done that very thing by actions that were dumb."

"In, ha," laughed Clowny. "You're afraid. But I am brave and I have made a lot of moves that all the rest of you have plainly feared. Don't worry 'cause I'll see that we are as safe from harm as we can be. What makes you Tines shake so. Is it just because you're skooked?"

Then Scouty cried, "I'm brave as you and now, wherever you may do I'll very gladly help you. Let's get started right away. No coward will I ever be, 'cause I'm a Boy Scouty. Yes, sree! I'm always brave, no matter if it's in my work or play."

Then, suddenly wee Clowny ran up to the towering water can. "You see," he cried. "It's safe and sound. I knew that I was right. I'm going to tip the thing about and see if something nice pours out. If it holds milk or honey, won't that be a pleasing sight?"

"But when he tipped it not a thing but water came. 'Twas like a spring. Then Carpy cried, 'Oh, I know what that great big car is for. It makes the rain fall down on earth. Let's make it rain for all it's worth. As long as it holds water, we can pour and pour and pour.'"

EXPLOSION OF STILL KILLS TWO BABIES

BY ALLENE SUMNER
The two little youngsters of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wallach of Bethlehem, Pa., were killed when their father's still exploded the other morning. The father explained that it was his first attempt at making moonshine and that he did it because he could not support his family on his weekly wage of $18 a week.

Here's a dramatic tragedy. The maternal urge to do more for his kids sent the father into the moonshine business and that very mooning the kids.

Perhaps the same officials who met the bootleg liquor curse by languidly opining that everybody who broke the law and drank ought to be poisoned by bad liquor, will also opine that if a few more babies are killed by still explosions, it may help to stop the business.

WAUPACA COUNTY NEW LONDON - CLINTONVILLE - WAUPACA NEARBY TOWNS

MELTING SNOW IS LIKELY TO BRING NEW CITY FLOOD

More Rain Also Indicated by Stormy Skies in New London Region

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Higher water is anticipated in and about this city due to Thursday's blizzard. The water, which rose about an inch on Wednesday, was at a standstill on Thursday; but with the prospect that the newly fallen snow will melt swiftly, along with the stormy aspect of skies, it is thought highly probable that flood water will cause further inconvenience. Fully six inches of snow fell during Wednesday night and Thursday and roads were passable only because the dampness of the snowfall prohibited drifting.
At Clintonville, it was said, that the snow was drier and that drifts were causing difficulty on roads between that city and New London. The Clintonville bus discontinued its trips until the road could be plowed. The Inter-County Bus line continued to operate, the plow making a trip on Thursday which cleared a wide track. Snow fall was considerably heavier between Greenville and Appleton than here, it was said.
Mail men covering rural territories made their rounds in nearly rain time, most of the carriages driving their cars. Dirt roads are heavy, having been recently cleared of the last blizzard and rains.
Marooned by flood waters in a rickety old house, cut off from communication by a stretch of water overflowing from the Wolf river near by, John Koehnke was removed by boat and sent to Riverside sanatorium on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Koehnke, former residents of Appleton, came here in August, the former hoping to regain his health by life in the open. The extreme cold of the winter together with snow and later by flood water have worked many hardships for the couple. Recent floods had all but reached the floors of the dwelling which can be seen from Highway 54, near Big Eddy. The man was accompanied to the sanatorium by an Appleton nurse.

CHEGWINS WILL LEAVE SOON FOR S. AMERICA

New London—Mrs. Charles Chegwin and daughter Patricia, who have been winter guests at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. E. T. Avery, will leave in about two weeks upon the first lap of their journey to Tocapilla, Chile. They will spend a few days at their former home in Birmingham, Ala., and will sail from New York on May 8. The journey will take 10 days. Mrs. Chegwin is a mining engineer employed by a company whose interests lie in the nitrate fields. Mrs. Chegwin has spent considerable time in the study of Spanish and looks forward to the novelty of living in South America. The Chegwins will occupy a modern bungalow in the American colony, many members of which are from the states. Schools taught by teachers from the United States and the nearness to one of the principal cities of Chile are features which will make their two years of residence agreeable.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS CITY IMPROVEMENTS

New London—New London's spring program of repair and improvement has not yet been completed, and the season's work on city streets probably will not begin until the first week in May, according to Mayor E. W. Wendlandt. The time between will allow for the removal of the winter's accumulation of rubbish, the annual clean-up week probably coming early in May or late in April. The street commission sees no early end to its deluge of spring work, since blizzards, floods and the regular street cleanup have taken all its time. Streets which are unpaved have been dragged four times during the past month, each period of dragging being followed by a heavy rain or snow.

RUSCH BUILDING WILL BE MOTOR SHOW ROOM

The garage occupied by the company in S. Pearl-st. will still continue in use. All repair and mechanical work will be attended to there, while the new quarters will be made as attractive as possible for the display of Nash and Chrysler cars.

NEW YORK CITY'S TRANSIT RATE IS WAY UNDER AVERAGE

Supreme Court Decision Leaves Metropolis With 5 Cent Fare

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON Copyright, 1929 by the Consolidated Press Association

New York—As the transit commission moves for a "unification program" for the city's rapid transit system, the statisticians are figuring out that the supreme court decision sustaining the five-cent subway fare leaves the metropolis, presumably for long time to come, with a fare of 39.4 per cent less than the present average for all cities in the United States. This average is now 14 cents.

New York City is one of 72 cities which retain the 5-cent fare, San Francisco being the only other large city in the country where the price of a car ride has been kept to the present level. In the latter city, the larger of the two systems is privately owned, with privilege of recapture by the city, and the other municipal-owned. The New York Interborough system, loser in the plea before the supreme court for a 7-cent fare, is subsidized by the city, the increase in materials and operating costs being met by taxation.

Tammany Hall may justly claim credit, or responsibility, as the cause may be, for making New York City a notable exception in the trend of utility economics. The large foreign born population of this city has a thrifty way of counting pennies and this makes the defense of the five-cent fare a priceless political asset. As Tammany was founded and has been nourished from its beginnings on the support of the foreign-born, there has been no argument in the organization as to the sanctity of the money ear rigger, but rather a competition as to who could most eloquently defend it.

ECONOMICS OBSCURED
As a result, the economic factors of the dispute have been obscured in the public discussions, and the repercussions of the supreme court decision are largely political. It has unquestionably cut the political ground-out from under former Mayor John F. Hylan, who had again emerged as a possible candidate for the mayoralty, and banished the worried frown from the brow of the dapper and engaging Mayor Walker. Mr. Walker, credited with a notable assist in the Washington put-out, is buried under laurel wreaths. Can any observers of New York politics say there is no doubt that he will be renominated and reelected.

August Belmont gave the first impetus and supplied some of the funds which led New York City to underwrite and subsidize the Interborough under the existing system of operation. With this arrangement, and with recapture of the lines by the city in the remote background, the five-cent fare decision is not interpreted as having any particular important bearing on the question of public ownership as there are too many complications involved. It is viewed, however, as establishing an interesting precedent in the matter of public utilities reaching into the federal courts for redress of grievances. The decision throws the argument back into the state courts and the city representatives, fighting for adherence to the original contract, feel in a more secure position in the lower tribunals. In this aspect, the decision is regarded as significant as it may later affect state and city autonomy in disputes of this kind.

$6,000,000,000 INVESTMENT
Electric railways throughout the country now have an investment of $6,000,000,000 and last year carried 16,000,000,000 passengers as against 15,500,000,000 two years ago. In spite of this they complain of bitter competition and they are rapidly taking over new means of transportation. There are now about 1,000 taxicabs and 10,000 busses operated by electric railway companies throughout the United States.

In addition to New York and San Francisco, the following are the cities of the United States where the five-cent fare still is maintained:

Arizona, Phoenix; California, Chico, Long Beach, Marysville, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Pedro, Santa Monica, Santa Rosa; Florida, Miami, St. Augustine, Tampa; Illinois, Bradley, La Salle, Peru; Indiana, Anderson, Columbus, Craw-fordville, Goshen, Jeffersonville, Kokomo, Lafayette, Marion, New Albany, Richmond, Terre Haute, Vincennes, Warsaw; Kansas, Coffeyville, Independence, Pittsburg, Salina; Kentucky, Covington, Maysville, Newport; Louisiana, Baton Rouge, Gretna; Massachusetts, Waltham, Winthrop; Michigan, Houghton, Marquette; Missouri, Jefferson City; Montana, Great Falls; New York, Cortland, Dunkirk, Fulton, Mount Vernon, Niagara Falls, Oneida, Olean, Oswego, Poughkeepsie, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Warren, Yonkers; Ohio, Chillicothe, Dayton, Delaware, Sandusky, Hamilton, Lancaster; Maine, Bangor; Oklahoma, Muskogee; Tennessee, Jackson; Texas, Corpus Christi, Laredo; Virginia, Charlottesville, Hampton, Newport News; Washington, Olympia, Raymond, Tacoma; West Virginia, Princeton; Wisconsin, Wausau.

The only big game hunt in years at Southboro, Mass., was for a delinquent hunter. Because of her depredations after straying she was hunted down as a public nuisance.

Peking, China—(AP)—Bravery, Fidelity, Diligence and Loyalty are the virtues exhorting the people of China in the new national anthem. It is called the "Song of the Kuomintang."

MODERN KONJOLA HIGHLY PRAISED BY HAPPY LADY

"This Wonderful Medicine Is the One I Should Have Had in the First Place"—All Else Failed

Konjola, the new and different medicine, the medicine that conquers when all else has failed, is proving in Appleton the same tremendous success it has accomplished elsewhere. Introduced, Konjola makes good simply because it is made to make good; it succeeds simply because it is a success. Konjola is unlike other medicines in many ways. First, it is emphatically not a medicine of promises. It stands alone and only on a foundation of victories, successes, triumphs. Konjola is not a medicine aimed at mere temporary relief. Its goal is new, abundant and glorious health, no matter what treatments have failed; no matter how long the suffering has been endured; no matter if hope of recovery has been well nigh abandoned. But the best way to learn all about this new medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs. See what Konjola has done and is doing. Know what Konjola means to all who would know again the happiness that comes with health. You may hear the amazing story of this super remedy from the Konjola Man, who is at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., this city, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this medicine.

An everlasting truth it is that we profit by the experiences of others. What a wonderful thing it would be could all who suffer hear what thousands of former sufferers could tell you about this master medicine and its works. Read, then, every word of the statement of Mrs. S. T. Kirkpatrick, 1331 Loyola avenue, Chicago. Beaming with new health Mrs. Kirkpatrick said:

"No words of mine are eloquent enough to pay to Konjola the tribute that it deserves for what it did for me. Before I heard of this amazing medicine I was just about to give up all hope of ever seeing another well day. Some months ago I underwent an operation for gallitis, and the shock of this undermined my general health. I was terribly run down, and I not a medicine I tried and it to build me up. My nerves were shattered appetite disappeared, and because of bladder weakness I was up all hours of the night. The loss of sleep, under-nourishment, nervousness and terrible headaches had about driven me to despair."

"I was in this pitiable physical and mental state when Konjola was recommended to me. I was so discouraged that I had little or no faith in any medicine, but as I knew that something must be done, I finally decided to put this new medicine to the test. What a fine decision that was! Just as I was told it would do, Konjola went to the very source of my troubles. I began to feel better at once. The results were marvelous. In just four weeks, in which time I took four bottles of this master medicine, I was as a new woman. My nerves are calm, digestion is fine, I can sleep all night every night, and I have not had a headache since the first few days with Konjola. I never dreamed there could be such a medicine, and I increase it with all my heart."

"The Konjola Man is at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., Appleton, where he is daily meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine. Free samples given."

The National league teams will be composed of Interlake Pulp and Paper company, Valley Iron Works, Brandt company, Riverside Fibre and Paper company, American Legion Company D, Bankers and the Post-Crescent-Badger Printing company.

Officers of the National league are Mike Kling, Bankers, president; Hubert Plette, C. D., vice-president; H. W. Miller, Wisconsin Telephone company, secretary-treasurer.

Officers of the American league are E. H. Nelson, Wisconsin Michigan Power company, president; Paul Hannerman, Tuttle Press, vice-president; Nathan Klether, Pettibone-Peabody company, secretary-treasurer.

Rules to be followed will be the same as in other years. The National leagues will play four times a week on the Pierce park diamond, the American leagues twice a week, one game at Pierce park, the other on the Wilson school diamond. Play will begin the last week in April, one week sooner than last year.

After the organization meeting was completed Thursday night the league moguls met and discussed their troubles. They will secure an umpire to handle all games during the season.

BANTAMWEIGHTS TO MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

Kid Chocolate and Bushy Graham Battle in New York Coliseum

New York—(AP)—Elligio Gardinas and Angelo Geraci—otherwise Kid Chocolate and Bushy Graham—hope to shed a little light on the much-muddled bantamweight situation Friday night. They clash at Jess McMahon's New York coliseum in a 15-round bout which should see one or the other eliminated from the bantamweight picture.

Indications are that neither will attempt to win the class limit 118 pounds but there is a little reason to doubt that both could get down to it if necessary.

Chocolate, undefeated in his short career, rules the betting favorite at 7 to 5 but the experts, almost to a man, expect the Cuban Negro to find Graham the toughest man he has ever met.

Graham, who hails from Utica, N. Y., has been rated at or near the top of the bantamweights since he won the title two years ago. Some of the edges of his phenomenal speed may have disappeared but he still is a foreman worthy of any 118-pounder in the business.

Chocolate is much the harder hitter of the two and can box to boot. But it is doubtful if the Cuban will be able to stop Graham.

BILLY WALLACE IN WIN OVER GROGAN

Cleveland Lightweight Is Back Among 135 Pound Leaders

Detroit—(AP)—Billy Wallace, trim little Cleveland lightweight Friday is back in the ranks of leading contenders for Sammy Mandell's title. He came through with a decisive victory over Tommy Grogan, game and determined 135 pounder from Omaha in their ten round battle at Olympia Arena Thursday night.

The bout, after an ordinary start, became a thriller in the closing rounds with Wallace opening up in the sixth and piling up points there after that turned the tide in his favor. The verdict of Referee "Slim" McClelland was popular with the crowd of 14,000.

The ringside credited Wallace with six of the rounds with three going to Grogan and one even. Wallace in the sixth drove Grogan to the ropes with a left to the jaw that caused the Omaha boy's knees to sag. He continually forced the issue, piling up points along the route and made Grogan miss frequently. Grogan upset Wallace in the ninth with a short right to the jaw but Billy jumped to his feet instantly without waiting for a count.

Both came in under 135 pounds with Grogan weighing 134 and Wallace 132½.

Leaders of Navy Crew

The Navy crew finished fifth in the annual Poughkeepsie races last summer, but there is greater optimism at Annapolis this season that the Middies will do better than that. The Navy crew is busy at work now, with Coach Dick Glendon, Sr., in charge, and Carl Giese, captain, aiding him. They are shown here—Glendon, decked out in slicker and with megaphone, and Giese, insert.

Training Camp Gossip

Macon, Ga., —(AP)—Since pitchers are the least of Wilbert Robinson's worries, he spent a rainy afternoon Thursday selecting Brooklyn's hurlers for the best of the Spring training season. McWeeny was the choice for Friday's game in Breenboro, N. C., and Clark will open the annual spring series against the Yankees Saturday.

Washington —(AP)—Despite three defeats at the hands of Washington and one tie game, the Giants and their rosters are not losing hope yet. The scores get closer every day and the New Yorkers are playing better ball. Only their failure to hit the pitching of Yliska and Brown cost them Thursday's contest.

Atlanta, Ga. —(AP)—With only one more game on their exhibition schedule before they return home, the Yankees still are romping through their games apparently without caring whether they win or lose. They beat the Atlanta Crackers Thursday but only because their hits were a little harder and came at the right times.

Kansas City, Mo., —(AP)—"Gabby" Hartnett, Cub catcher, insists his salary wing is healed and that he is ready to work. Hartnett hasn't caught a game all spring because of his lame arm and it is doubtful whether Manager Joe McCarthy will let him risk it for two weeks more.

Cincinnati, O. —(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds out of town training season ended in Indianapolis Thursday when the Indians sent them home with a 10 to 4 beating. The Reds had only a workout on their schedule today, but Saturday and Sunday were to meet the Cleveland Indians.

St. Louis —(AP)—Back home with a practice scheduled for Friday and the city series opening Saturday, Manager Billy Southworth was confident over the chances of the St. Louis Cardinals. He said he was especially pleased with Jim Bottomley's batting and also that of Eddie Delker, who has been the hitting sensation of the training trip.

Tulsa, Okla., —(AP)—Manager Dan Howley worked a pair of hurlers who played with the Tulsa Oilers against their former team Thursday and the St. Louis Browns scored their first shutout of the season, pounding three pitchers for 15 hits and 14 runs, including two homers.

Recruit outfielder Tom Jenkins got his second homer in two days as well as a single and a double.

Because snow covered hills and Dales do not smack of the baseball season and make traveling more or less miserable, Fox River Valley League baseball moguls called off their meeting scheduled for the Conway hotel Thursday evening.

Plans now are to call the managers together Sunday afternoon at the hotel and see what can be done about getting a schedule adopted and electing a few officers to staff the worry for the next year.

Several of the clubs are having trouble getting organized and a few matters affecting this particular feature also will be ironed out.

The valley season is scheduled to get underway on May 5, if the weather man decides to again become reasonable. Indications are the schedule will call for two complete swings around the loop with the closing date on the first weekend in September.

BADGERS RAINED OUT AT BUTLER

Team Leaves for Nashville For Two Games With Vanderbilt

Indianapolis, Ind.—Weather conditions were ideal for baseball here Thursday, but a steady rain fell through the night which necessitated postponement of the second game of the Wisconsin-Butler series because of wet grounds.

Coach Guy Lowman did not miss the opportunity to work his squad, however, and directed his boys in a three hour hitting and fielding drill at Riverside park Thursday morning. The practice was held on a temporary diamond in the outfield.

The Wisconsin party left here on a sleeper for Nashville, Tenn., early Thursday evening to open a two game stand with Vanderbilt Friday. Maury Earler, one of Doc McCall's players who looks like a real find, will probably draw the pitching assignment, with either Doyle or Evans receiving.

Brooklyn Has Best Pitchers In National

BY JOHN B. FOSTER

Copyright 1929.
NEW YORK—The four clubs picked up the second division in the 1929 National League including Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Boston, may finish in that order. Cincinnati has a capital defense. Its pitchers are better than those of any of the four clubs except Brooklyn.

If the Cincinnati team were to become discouraged it might lose much of its fire. It has a manager whose methods are now always received with favor, but Jack Hendricks is a manager who gives of his personality to such an extent that he encourages his whole team. His energy is unlimited and his optimism is a tonic.

The Reds lack batting strength on the infield, no matter how great the defensive power of that infield, and it is great. Super skill in defense does not offset lack of strength in attack. Make each of the four batters of the Cincinnati infield a sure 200 hitter and the Reds would have as good chance to win the pennant as any team in the league.

HAVE GOOD PITCHERS
In pitchers, Ash, the youthful Johnson, Red Lucas and Ray Kolp will have to bear their share to hold the team up. Adolfo Luque is reported a physical marvel but he can't keep his pace forever. Zahner may help. He always has seemed to be a helpful pitcher. He may hear fruit one of these days. If Pete Donohue has a good year he may again become a winner.

Brooklyn has a corps of pitchers and precious little to add to them. The pitchers are so expert and so good that they may do their share to keep the team in motion. The Brooklyn pitching staff is like a red flag in a bull ring to the remainder of the National league.

Philadelphia might have been a fair ball team if Tommy Thevenow had not been injured. The Phillies have shown fighting skill without any pitchers which is something very seldom seen in baseball. It had an infield that would have given many a moment of pleasure to the baseball fan, but it is not apt to do as well even if Thevenow returns by and by. The good of his training was lost by his accident.

Boston appears to be doomed to hopeless loss. It is not sound in any department of the game. It lacks in pitching although it has one or two promising pitchers, its infield is just as infield and there is one outfielder on that team. George Harper might do better if he could play rightfield, but he is hopelessly misplaced in left field.

CUB BATSMEN HAVE ONE LESS ALIBI NOW

Chicago —(AP)—Batmen will have one less alibi for weak hitting at Wrigley Field, home of the Cubs, this year.

For many season, batters have complained about an old iron picket fence in centerfield and the players said their movements interfered with their batting.

But the fence has been torn out and a solid iron wall, painted green, has replaced it, giving the batmen an ideal background.

PHILLIES, MACKS START PRUNING

Peel, Phil's Outfielder, Confined to Bed With Appendicitis

Philadelphia —(AP)—Pruning has started in the ranks of the Phillies and the Athletics.

Manager Shotton, of the Phillies, announced Tuesday that he had sent a rookie battery, Bill Derham, left-handed pitcher, and George Sheffelt, catcher, to the Scranton club, of the New York-Pennsylvania league, on option.

Nick Bonelli, formerly of Muhlenberg college, has been sent on option by the Athletics to the Portland club, of the Pacific Coast league, also for seasoning.

Homer Peel, young outfielder obtained by the Phillies from Waco, of the Texas league, is ill at his hotel and may not be able to play in the opening game of the National league season next week. Physicians said there were indications of appendicitis.

FRANK WALSH BACK IN APPLETON MONDAY

Butte des Morts Course in Good Condition Until Snowstorm

Frank Walsh, professional at Butte des Morts golf club, probably will arrive here Monday to again direct the destinies of the local club.

Walsh has been playing golf throughout the winter months with the hundreds of other pros who annually trek from coast to coast in the various open and professional meets. He started his jaunt with a trip to Hawaii, winding it up with the LaGorce open at Miami Beach, Fla.

Although play on Butte des Morts row is out of the question for a few days, the course was in excellent condition last week, according to club officials. The new greens on the first nine holes are in good condition and until the weatherman dumped the most recent snowstorm on the country indications were play would be started as soon as Walsh arrived. But now—who knows?

Sports Question Box

Question—When does Yale meet the University of Georgia next year? Is this the first time the Big Three eleven has played in the south?

Answer—On October 14 next at Athens. It is the first time, although a team made up of Princeton graduates played met Vanderbilt in the south a few years ago playing a tie game.

Question—Batter fouls what should have been the third strike. The catcher does not make a clean catch of the ball which lodges under his chest protector. The ball does not touch the ground. Is the batter out?

Answer—The batter is not out, if the ball lodges and is caught under the chest protector. The rules are very plain about this.

Question—It is agreed that the beginning of a play is the pitcher's windup. What is the end of a continuous play? Is it when the pitcher holds the ball in his position ready to deliver it to the next batter or when he actually begins to wind up again.

Answer—When the pitcher holds the ball in position after the first play has been completed a second play is ready to begin and does when he starts it.

Long Time Football Contracts Troublesome

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

Copyright 1929.
NEW YORK—Football schedules now extend through the years. This is a new phase of schedule making and there is nothing wrong with it—except when opportunity comes for feature alliance in the near future.

When this happens the necessity of juggling, for revisions, eliminations and all sorts of things occur. For instance, in arranging to play Princeton in 1931 after a lapse of fifty years, Michigan found that she was committed to meet Indiana at Bloomington on that date two years hence.

But the Hoosiers very kindly agreed to come to Ann Arbor and Michigan will go to Bloomington next year.

Then, with the arrangement of games with Harvard next fall and in the fall of 1930, Michigan found herself compelled to break what was just growing to be a hardy annual.

Wisconsin's plan to raise the standard of scholastic eligibility for athletes in the Eastern conference is likely to find enthusiastic support in the Big Ten. Just at present discrepancy exists in the requirements of the various conferences.

Universities which are disadvantageous on the one hand to certain institutions and on the other is beneficial. The essence of the Big Ten organization is the conduct of athletics on an equitable basis and just now it is clear that such a condition does not exist.

The writer knows of no seat of learning which has stiffened its standards and afterwards regretted such action. Pennsylvania is now taking a very rigid attitude in the matter of eligibility for extra curricular pursuits, has set the mark higher than the one grade point advance which Wisconsin proposes.

And the coaches and every one concerned—save possibly the students—feel that it is an excellent move.

President Hibben of Princeton, says that in his experience the best football team Princeton ever had were those in which members maintained a high scholastic average and that the boy who is lagging in the classroom lacks those qualities of character, initiative, quick thinking and constructive intelligence which on the athletic field are marked in the outstanding athlete.

The Boy Scouts

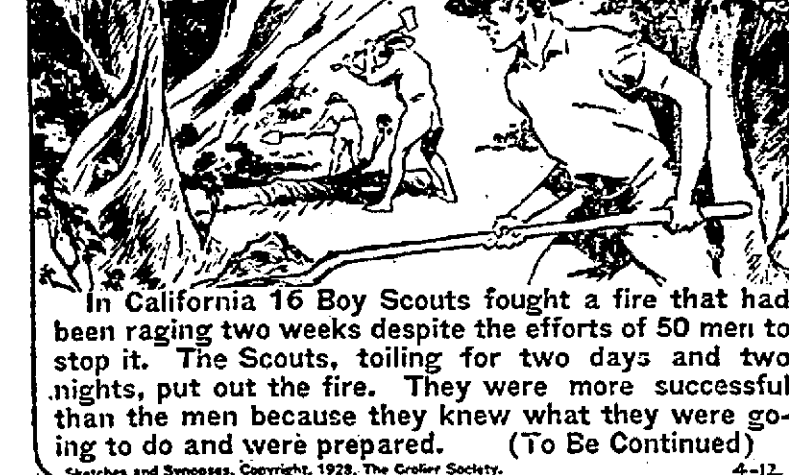

Boy Scout firemen are official aides to fire departments in many cities and country districts. Their business is "to stop the fire before it happens"; in their khaki uniforms they inspect to see that hallways are kept clean and that rubbish is not left in dangerous places.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-25.

In Pasadena, Calif., there is a Boy Scout auxiliary fire department, composed chiefly of Eagle Scouts.

In California 16 Boy Scouts fought a fire that had been raging two weeks despite the efforts of 50 men to stop it. The Scouts, toiling for two days and two nights, put out the fire. They were more successful than the men because they knew what they were going to do and were prepared. (To Be Continued)

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MILDRED LAWRENCE, stenographer in the Jackson Hotel, has her fox fur snatched from her neck tugging back on the next train, she finds a crowd gathered on the platform, and learns that the thief has been caught by STEPHEN ARMITAGE.

An officer takes them all to the station house, and after the routine details are disposed of, Stephen insists on taking Mildred home. She demurs but does not wish to seem ungrateful so finally asks him home to her mother's house.

The evening is spoiled, however, when PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, phones and insists on her returning to the hotel to assist at a ball. Stephen tells Mildred that he is an auto salesman and that he had recently sold a car to Pamela. The latter recognizes him as he is leaving Mildred in the lobby and asks him to dance with her before the regular guests arrive. Pamela is called to the phone and snubs Mildred when she returns and finds her dancing with Stephen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III
That night, arriving home late, Mildred found Connie reading a magazine in bed. This she threw aside in great anticipation of hearing something interesting.

She sat up, with her arms curled around her knees, looking oddly sophisticated. Connie was going through the black lingerie period, much to the disapproval of her mother. Usually Mildred had something to say about it, too, but just now she was not in a mood to notice the black velvet gowns.

"I couldn't sleep," Connie confessed in a whisper, "until I heard what happened."

Mildred tossed her hat onto a chair and her bag on the dresser. Connie puckered up her lips and hummed softly. Mildred always put her hat on a peg and her bag in a drawer. Connie scented trouble.

"Just a flat tire after all?" she questioned sympathetically. Mildred looked at her then.

"Go to sleep," she said crossly. "Aw, come on, Sis, tell me all about it. But I'm awfully disappointed. Honestly I am. I thought he was a real person. Someone you could like."

"I'm not looking for anyone to like."

"Horse feathers! You're normal, aren't you?"

"Your young ideas give me a pain," Mildred snapped, and disappeared into the clothes closet to get her night dress. Connie sighed and turned out the light by the bed.

A few minutes later Mildred crept in beside her, moist from hasty ablutions and misty-eyed with unshed tears. Connie put a firm warm arm about her and pressed her face close to Mildred's but she said nothing more.

"It's not that I care," Mildred told herself, "but suppose I did?"

She meant suppose she cared for Stephen. She thought her feeling of being ill-used was caused by Pamela's high-handed treatment of her and her resentment of it. She had no idea that Stephen had made a deep impression upon her; that she minded having him grabbed up by Pamela.

"I'd quit in a minute if it weren't for Mom and Connie," she stormed silently.

It wasn't fair that one girl should have everything in the world and another should have to struggle alone within sight but not within reach of all that the other had.

"I'm sick of it," Mildred rebelled, but she knew she would go on tolerating Pamela's abuse for the sake of her position.

The next morning she was unusually silent and hardly touched her breakfast. Mrs. Lawrence was too busy to notice. Somehow Connie's belongings invariably got her breakfast. Mrs. Lawrence got scattered all over the flat and she needed a searching party to help her off to school on time.

Mildred did not expect Stephen to show up at the hotel, at least not with any work for her to do, but just before noon he surprised her by appearing at her desk.

He looked precisely what Pamela that Pamela would not drive any car for a year.

When they arrived at the club a dance was in progress and Pamela was not allowed more than a couple of dances with Stephen before he was to yield to others.

Stephen sauntered off to a smoking room and found a small knot of men in interesting conversation with a racing driver who was just back from winning cups in South America.

South America and racing cars were two things Stephen liked to hear about. He hoped some day to be the South American representative for a good car, and racing drivers were his boyhood idols. He hadn't quite grown up in respect to hero worshiping.

For at least five dances he forgot all about Pamela. Remembering, he started out to find her but fate, in the person of a pretty red-haired girl, waylaid him. She demanded a dance. Stephen recalled having met her in a group when he arrived.

He didn't want to be rude. But they hadn't danced long before he found himself looking into Pamela's darkening countenance as she swept past him with a young man whose whispered words were falling on unheeding ears.

"I'm in for it," Stephen thought. And so he was. At the end of the dance he sought out Pamela and found her furiously angry.

"I know where you were," she declared hotly when he tried to tell her of the racing driver. "Everyone knows where anyone is when they're with that red-headed Angela Perkins."

"I give you my word..."

"Oh, save it. Anyway, I'm tired of this; let's get out of here."

"Certainly."

Stephen was a little angry now himself. After all, no girl had any string on him.

"I'll drive," Pamela said shortly when they got into her car. Stephen had driven to the club but now he took the seat beside her without a word.

Perhaps, had he attempted to defend himself, Pamela's anger would have dissipated itself in quarreling with him, but she did not know how to meet silence. Not Stephen's at any rate. The silence of overworked servants was a different matter.

She had a grudge of long standing against Angela Perkins—a grudge born of rivalry. She knew that Angela had attached Stephen for the purpose of annoying her and she honestly believed that Stephen had attempted to lie about it.

They drove in bitter silence for a mile or two; then suddenly she brought her car to a stop. She asked Stephen to get out and take a look at the rear wheels. She said she thought she had a flat.

"Nonsense," Stephen replied curtly.

Pamela started to open the door on her side. It was only a bluff.

As he stepped out of the car and moved to the rear, Pamela put it in gear and roared away, turning her head to call back something that Stephen made out to be a suggestion that he walk back and drive home with Angela.

Stephen swore; then grinned. "Walked! Can you beat that?"

Pamela was far down the road before he turned back toward the club. Headless of danger, she drove on at high speed, forgetting that ahead of her lay a short stretch of road under repair.

Even when she saw the warning signal lights she did not slow in time to avoid tearing onto the rutted road with a momentum that brought disaster.

It came with the ear-splitting noise of a cannon shot, a jagged blowout that flattened a rear tire in less than a second and sent the car lurching and careening madly from side to side.

Pamela tried desperately to right it, but she knew when it came to a stop finally, directly across the roadway, that luck had favored her.

She slumped weakly back, shaken and white. But the next instant, glancing up the road in the direction she had come, her eyes met a sight that froze her to her seat with a new fear.

Big Increase In Pullman Car Travel In Past Decade

During the past decade the number of persons traveling in Pullman and parlor cars is almost doubled, local railroad men say. The old tourist sleeper with cane seats, and even the kind of seats in modern day coaches are a thing of the past, or at least are undesirable, they say.

The average traveling man when buying his railroad ticket will say, "Chair please," and if he is unable to secure one because of previous reservations, his face usually drops and the joy of the trip is gone.

The present tourist sleeper has leather or cane seats, and the passenger travels at a cheaper rate, but the cars having these accommodations are usually found empty except during rush periods.

However, the tourist cars are things of the early pioneer days and the poor men want just as good service as the money man because when he travels he wants things as modernistic as possible, because it is a rare occasion.

A new feature recently added to parlor cars is the introduction of color. Robins' egg blue is used for the finish on some roads. Where red and green alone were once used for upholstery, a variety of shades and mixtures can now be found. Brown and white appears to be a favorite combination, rail men say.

Cars with separate rooms are one of the latest features in sleeping cars. One line introduced these about a year ago, and since then others have adopted them. Room cars are divided into 11 compartments, making 11 single rooms. Each has a single stationary bed with box springs and individual coils, a dressing room, and a clock which can be illuminated, although it also has a luminous dial. These cars are the most recent development in the de luxe trains.

Roller bearings have made the use of real beds possible, because the jolting of the car over the rails would ruin the springs if smoother riding were not made possible. Roads throughout the country have adopted these.

BADGER MOTORISTS PAY LESS IN TAXES THAN U. S. AVERAGE

Wisconsin Rate Is Lower Despite Fact That State Has Better Roads

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Washington Correspondent of the Post-Crescent

Washington, D. C.—The Wisconsin motorist, despite the superiority of the roads with which the state provides him, paid $1.65 less in taxes per vehicle owned than did the average motorist in the United States last year.

The average tax collected on each motor vehicle in Wisconsin last year, including registration and license fees and gasoline taxes, was $23.67, while the average for the country as a whole was $25.32.

The A. A. A. report shows 743,315 motor vehicles registered in Wisconsin in 1928, and a total of $17,602,674.50 collected in taxes on motorists. The Bureau of Public Roads says that there were 742,135 motor vehicles registered, exclusive of motorcycles and trailers. Both figures include busses, trucks, taxicabs and road tractors. Wisconsin was tenth, according to the Bureau of Public Roads, in the number of motor vehicles registered.

Of the total taxes paid by motorists in Wisconsin, $10,774,707 was paid as registration fees on 742,135 motor vehicles.

The average tax in states neighboring on Wisconsin in 1928 was: Minnesota, $23.39; Iowa, $26.17; Illinois, $9.61; and Michigan, $29.58. Motor vehicle registration in these states was: Minnesota, 673,573; Iowa, 733,466; Illinois, 1,504,339; and Michigan, 1,249,221.

There were last year 24,731,600 motor vehicles registered in the United States, according to the A. A. A., and a total of $624,325,670 in taxes of all kinds except personal property taxes collected on them.

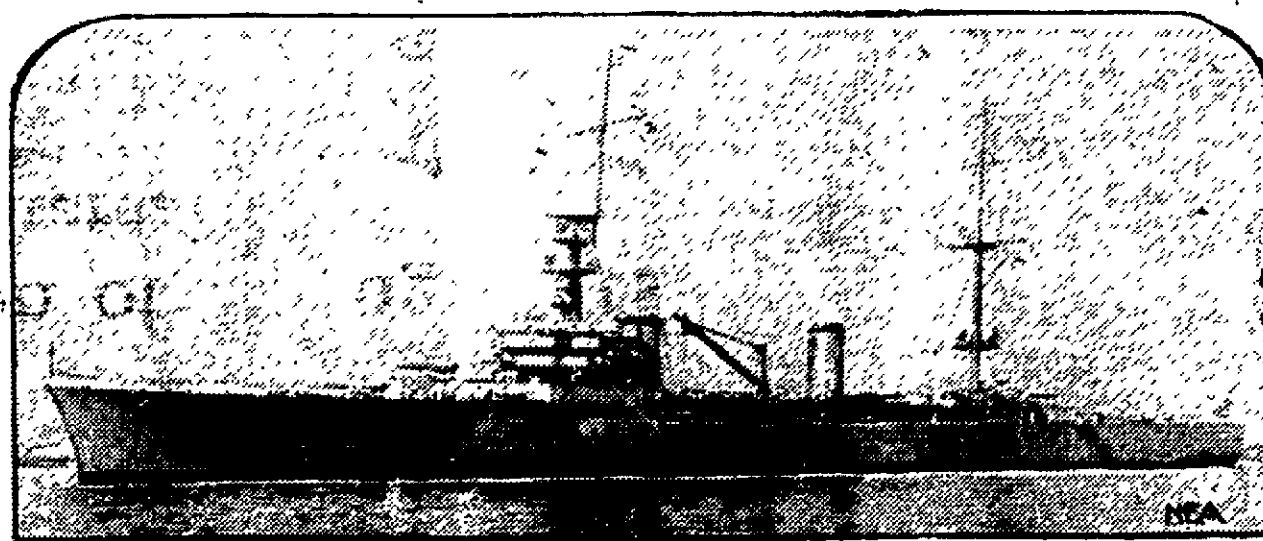

Total collection of gasoline taxes amounted to $319,906,417, an increase of 26 per cent over the 1927 collection, while special taxes collected jumped from $552,629,828 to the 1928 figure of $624,325,670.

According to the Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture, registration fees, license fees, permit charges and fines collected in 1928 from motorists were 7 per cent higher than in 1927, reaching $322,630,025 in 1928 on the 24,493,124 motor vehicles reported by the Bureau of Public Roads.

California led in the amount collected in gasoline taxes, with $29,909,709. Pennsylvania led in total motor taxes collected, with $49,622,603. New York led in the total number of motor vehicles registered, jumping for the first time past the two million mark to 2,083,942.

SCHOOLS TO OBSERVE CHILD HEALTH DAY

Dramatizations and Short Talks Will Be Given to Students

Child Health Day, scheduled for May 1, will be observed in Appleton schools with dramatizations, short talks, and songs in the various grades, and an attempt will be made to further the national campaign for more and better play among children.

President Hoover, who also is president of the American Child Health association, and originator of the May Day: Child Health Day idea, has issued a proclamation inviting "the people of the United States and all agencies and organizations interested in this most important subject to make every reasonable effort to bring about a nation-wide understanding of the fundamental significance of healthy childhood and of the importance of the conservation of the health and physical vigor of our boys and girls throughout every day of the year."

President Hoover is author of the Child's Bill of Rights, which is as follows. The ideal to which we should strive is that there shall be no child in America:

That has not been born under proper conditions.

That does not live in hygienic surroundings.

That ever suffers from under-nourishment.

That does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection.

That does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health.

That has not the complete birthright of a sound mind in a sound body.

That has not the encouragement expressed in the fullest measure of the spirit within which is the final endowment of every human being.

ASK MENTORS' OPINIONS ON RETIREMENT REPORTS

Teachers of rural schools of Outagamie-co are to be given an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of the proposed plan of sending out annual statements of the teacher's retirement fund, according to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. The retirement fund committee of the Wisconsin Teacher's association is seeking to learn the sentiment of the teachers on this matter and Mr. Meating has been asked to make a survey in Outagamie-co. He is sending questionnaires to the teachers by which they may express their preference. Under the present plan it is possible to secure an annual report of the retirement fund by writing the department at Madison. Under the proposed plan the reports would voluntarily be mailed out. Every teacher over 25 years of age is forced by law to take part in the retirement fund program.

Miss Spence Will Mark The Whittall "Sidewalk" Rug

On Monday the Whittall rug which has been spread on the sidewalk in front of Pettibone's every day for a week will be divided into two parts. One half will be sent to the Whittall factory for cleaning and the other will be kept here in the Store.

Miss Catherine Spence of the Domestic Science Department of Appleton High School will mark the half which is sent away for cleaning so that she can identify it when it is returned. This is to prove conclusively that no other rug has been substituted for the exceedingly soiled and grimy half which was sent away.

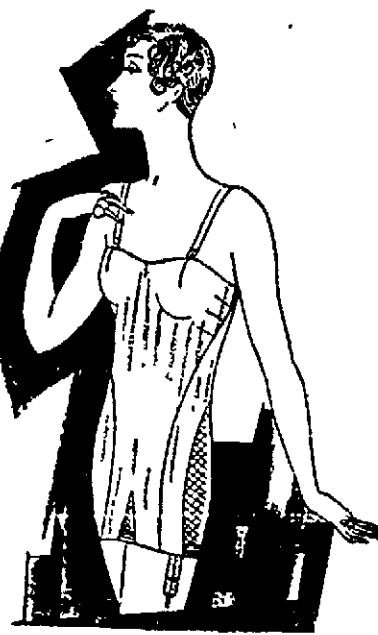

The clean half and the soiled half will then be displayed in the window—an amazing contrast and a proof of the durability of Whittall rugs.
